Bacteria launched in Frisco Bay

Army admits secret germ-warfare tests

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A censored report on 20 years of secret, domestic germ-warfare tests has prompted plans for a lawsuit by the family of a man who died in 1950 after Navy ships launched bacteria in San Francisco Bay.

But most officials expressed only surprise at the report, made public

Tuesday, which revealed Army tests conducted in highway and subway tunnels, stockyards, on military bases and at sea off numerous populated areas.

"The family is determined to proceed with legal action. We wanted to have as much evidence available as possible," said Edward Nevin III, an attorney whose grandfather, Edward Nevin, died of a heart infection allegedly caused by Seriatta Marcescens bacteria.

It is this bacteria that was released from ships off San Francisco in September 1950, Army officials testified on Tuesday before the Senate subcommittee on health and scientific resources.

Their report said the Seriatta Marcescens bacteria spread up to 50 miles inland, but it had been believed that the bacteria would not endanger humans.

Two years later, they said, researchers became alarmed by an outbreak of infectious disease related to Seriatta Marcescens among San Francisco Bay area residents who had been hospitalized at about the time of the September 1950 test.

Despite the Army's alarm, however, California apparently noticed no strange illnesses. Bob Nance of the state Department of Health, said record checks for San Francisco and other cities from the time of the tests "found no unusual health situation."

Nevin said he felt the results of his private investigation of Army domestic germ tests from 1949 to 1969, combined with material contained in the Army report, were sufficient to file a claim.

He said the claim, which must be presented before the Army can be sued, would be filed within 30 days. The Army, which has denied any link between the tests and Nevin's death, would have six months in which to consider its merits, he said.

The Army report also said a farm owned by the University of Wisconsin was one of four sites where 48 tests involving "pathogenic agents," which are disease causing, were performed.

Glenn Pound, dean of the College of Agricultural and Life Sciences, said he believed the report referred to work on Newcastle disease, a virus afflicting chickens and other poultry.

Dr. B.C. Easterday of the university's department of veterinary science said Newcastle disease is a virus that affects poultry and which resembles bronchitis in its early stages, but later leads to incoordination, tremors and twitching of the head.

Police captain unharmed

Hostage freed after Carter pledges talk

WARRENSVILLE HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP) — A black gunman who had tried to drive whites off this planet under threat of a curse released his white policeman hostage of 45 hours unharmed today.

The release came shortly after President Carter repeated during a nationally televised news conference his earlier promise to speak with the ex-Marine after the hostage, Capt. Leo Keglovic, was freed.

Cory Moore, 25, emptied the bullets from his handguns and the guns and ammunition to Keglovic, 49, who then led Moore into custody outside the City Hall office that had been their home since Monday afternoon.

"Everybody's out, everybody's safe, nobody's hurt," Police Chief Craig Merchant said moments later.

The surrender came despite President Carter's refusal to grant Moore's demands that he talk with the ex-Marine before Keglovic was freed and that he apologize publicly for historic white oppression of blacks.

Moore, who got a television set by which to monitor news reports Monday night at the same time he released his other hostage, Shelley Ann Kiggans, 17, of Warrensville Heights, watched Carter's nationally televised White House news conference before giving up, authorities said.

In that news conference, Carter promised to talk with Moore after Keglovic was freed.

Carter said he weighed the danger of setting a precedent but didn't elaborate.

Even before Keglovic became visible, his family members hugged and cheered each other and were led in to see him.

Moore "surrendered right after the news conference," Merchant said. He said the delay in his appearance outside City Hall was because police needed "a few minutes to get him unwound."

He said Moore was to talk with the White House, but there was no immediate word as to when.

A LIGHT agenda awaits Washington C.H. City Council tonight at its regularly scheduled meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Carnegie Public Library.

No new legislation or previously introduced legislation appears on the Council agenda. . . Any discussion at the scheduled meeting will presumably come from the city manager's report.

On Channel 10 Friday night

WCH native in guest role on new CBS television series

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

A Washington C.H. native will be appearing in a Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) network television series which debuts Friday night.

Eve Christopher, better known in this area as Barbara Lynne Rose, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James E. Rose, 287 Webb Road, Wilmington, and formerly of Washington C.H., will be appearing in the new "Code R" series on Channel 10 at 8 p.m. Friday.

Miss Christopher will appear as a guest star as "Josie" in the "Code R" series which is "chock full of good intentions and attempts to put the family back into Family Viewing Time," according to a review in this week's TV Guide.

"She received a phone call from Warner Brothers and was thrilled to win the audition," said Miss Christopher's mother, Mrs. Mary Jo Rose. "She enjoyed the week's work and everyone was friendly and considerate."

The series follows the adventures of a resort island police chief, the island's one-man fire department and its sea-rescue lifeguard as they cope with the worst that man, nature and their scriptwriters can throw at them.

The outdoor filming had its drawbacks for Miss Christopher. "She about froze one day filming when she was out on a boat in cold weather wearing a brown bathing suit for eight hours," her mother stated.

The three principal roles in the series are played by James Houghton, Martin Kove and Tom Simcox. In the first show they deal with a team of runaway horses and a scuba diver trapped in an underwater cave. In the same episode they also stage a mid-air rescue of a man with a heart condition and chase a buffalo from a tavern.

Originally, Miss Christopher's interest in acting began while she was appearing in several plays at Washington High School.

Later Miss Christopher went on to obtain a bachelor of arts degree in radio-television-theater from Stephens College in Columbia, Mo.

After graduation she decided to relocate in New York City to attempt an acting career. She discovered that consistent work in acting is a never-ending battle against stiff competition.

Fortunately, at this time, she found that her grades in college math were a useful commodity on the job market. So, to survive, she accepted a position in the accounting department of the Manhattan Paint Co.

But she never lost sight of a career in film acting. While "The Exorcist" was in its pre-production stages, she received a position as an assistant in the movie's accounting department. Her next accounting assignment was in the Al Pacino film, "Serpico." Then came the offer to appear in "The Klansman."

Miss Christopher's film debut found her beaten by her klansman-husband in the movie, "The Klansman." The film featured Richard Burton, Lee Marvin and O.J. Simpson.

Since appearing in "The Klansman," Miss Christopher has served as an assistant production auditor for "All the President's Men," was the head production auditor for a Gladys Knight and the Pips special, and had the female lead in "Picnic" with Monty Markam in summer theatre. Last December she was a guest on the Bob Braun Show in Cincinnati and sang some of her own compositions.

COST TO GO UP — An Oakland Avenue bridge, owned by the city of Washington C.H., is marked for replacement by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners in connection with the proposed Wildman ditch project. The two five-foot pipes under the bridge would be too small to handle the increased water flow after the project is completed. An engineer's report in November estimated the cost of replacement at $23,895. An updated estimate submitted Tuesday by the engineer set the cost of replacing the bridge at $29,300. The city would be assessed the cost of replacing the bridge, if the project is officially approved.

Commissioners approve updated report

Higher price tags placed on Wildman ditch project

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald City Editor

The estimated cost of the Wildman ditch project will be higher than first expected, according to Fayette County Engineer Donald Conley.

Conley submitted an updated report on the proposed project to the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Tuesday at a sparsely-populated public hearing in the Mahan Building.

In turn, the commissioners accepted the report and voted to continue with the project. The decision ended the first hearing on the ditch project that had been continued four times since July.

The project now carries a $111,300 price tag. The estimated cost of the project submitted to the county commissioners last November was $79,000.

Conley told the commissioners that the average cost per acre for residents benefiting from the straightening and clearing of the ditch would be $56. However, he was quick to add that the figure was misleading.

"It will be substantially lower for some property owners and substantially higher for others," Conley said. "If you own a house on property (involved in the project) it will be considerably more than $56 per acre," he explained.

Conley's report updates a report submitted in November by Charles P. Wagner. In January, Conley replaced Wagner in the county engineer's office.

Conley attributed the increase in cost estimates for the project to inflation. He added five per cent increases to all construction costs to cover the inflationary trend. He also added an $11,000 charge for expected damages to people's property. That charge did not appear on Wagner's report.

The highest single cost of the project is the replacement of a bridge on Oakland Avenue. Conley estimated that cost at $29,300 which will be assessed to the city.

The replacement of the bridge, which caused some concern among Washington C.H. City Council members, was included in the project at an earlier hearing. The commissioners believed the waterway under the bridge would be too small to handle the increased flow of water from the 1,400-acre watershed after improvements on the ditch were made.

Wagner's report had set a $24,000 price tag on the bridge. No city officials were present at the meeting Tuesday when Conley announced that the estimated cost is now nearly $6,000 higher.

Excavation costs for the project which includes the main branch of the Wildman ditch, branches one and two, and the Fayette County Fairgrounds branch, was set at $26,000, only $2,000 higher than previously estimated.

Conley said he felt the benefits of the ditch project, which extends from Dayton Avenue on the east to the Mount Olive Road on the west edge, far outweighed the expense.

He said the project will reduce flood damage and increase property values. Using $2,000 per acre as a base, Conley said the project would involve $2.8 million in land value alone.

However, Conley did see some unfavorable factors. The high cost to the city for the bridge replacement, a $4,000 cost to the county to increase the culvert size under the old Jamison Road, and the high cost per acre to property owners.

Conley also pointed out that some land would be permanently removed from productivity.

"To construct a ditch this size you use up several feet of land," Conley

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — A gunman was believed holding several persons hostage on the fifth floor of the B'Nai B'Rith International Headquarters building here, police reported today.

A radio reporter at the scene said he had seen one man with a shotgun inside a window of the building before persons inside covered the windows with heavy paper or cardboard.

Police set up barricades at the scene about seven blocks north of the White House.

D.C. police officer A.W. Bell said an unknown number of men armed with rifles attempted a holdup at the building.

Shots were exchanged and at least three persons were injured. The hold-up men found themselves trapped and took over the 7th floor of the building, where Bell said, they were holding about 20 hostages.

Attorney concerned over court costs

B'burg impeachment suit dismissed

The efforts of 87 Bloomingburg residents to impeach Mayor Max E. Grim have failed.

The case, which got off to a horrendous start last October when it was thrown out of the Fayette County Common Pleas Court and termed "ridiculous" by the presiding judge, has been dismissed by an appeals court.

The Second District Circuit Court of Appeals laid the impeachment suit to rest Friday on a technicality. Someone, somewhere, failed to file needed court documents in the prescribed amount of time.

John C. Young, a Columbus attorney representing the 87 plaintiffs, is not spending his time remorsing over the dismissal. He is more concerned about his clients being charged the court costs.

He plans to file a motion in Fayette County Common Pleas Court to overturn the October decision which assessed $2,500 in court costs to the 87 village residents.

Young said he will contend that the $2,500 bill should be paid by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners as dictated by state law. The Ohio Revised Code reportedly assesses court costs, in cases involving the attempted removal of a public official, to the county.

Young said he would also file for an injunction which would stop the county sheriff from collecting the assessments from his clients until the matter is decided in court.

No matter who picks up the tab for the impeachment suit, Mayor Grim remains in the office he has held for nine years.

The 87 village residents, including five of six village council members, were seeking Grim's removal on charges of neglect of duty and misconduct.

The suit included four separate charges ranging from conflict of interest to failure to carry out the duties of the mayor's office.

However, the 87 plaintiffs had trouble backing up their allegations to the liking of Judge Robert W. Murray, who presided over the case in Fayette County Common Pleas Court. In fact the judge found the charges "ridiculous" and dismissed the case.

It was promptly appealed to the circuit court. That three-judge panel dismissed the case Feb. 19, because a transcript of the earlier trial was not submitted in the prescribed 40-day time limit, and no time extension was requested.

The transcript arrived 10 days late, according to Fayette County Clerk of Courts Ann Marvin. Neither Mrs. Marvin nor Young, the plaintiff's lawyer, were at fault in the matter. The 10-day delay was reportedly in the Common Pleas Court's office.

"Everything is timed," Mrs. Marvin said of the appeals court procedure, "and the judges stick to the schedule."

Young filed for reconsideration of the dismissal after the three judges rendered their first decision. Friday, the reconsideration motion was overruled.

The dismissal of any case on procedural grounds alone is the source of some apprehension, the judges wrote. However, they added that an enforcement of court rules must be consistent and upheld the dismissal.

said, adding that he proposed a maintenance strip be reserved on one side of the ditch for the entire length of the project.

He figures to use a total of 4.5 acres of land to construct the strip. Property owners have a right to claim damages for any loss of land and the $11,000 in damage funds was included in the estimate to cover the losses.

"People would have the opportunity and right to file for and claim damages," Conley said. He noted that the reimbursements for damages would be reduced from a land owners assessments.

Clifford Hughes, who was appointed by Fayette County Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman to replace county commissioner Laurence A. (Bucky) Dumford on the board, made a motion to approve Conley's plans and to proceed with the ditch petition. Dumford was unable to vote on the project because he owns property in the ditch watershed.

Conley was allowed three months to submit final plans and profiles on the project. Those profiles are due in the commissioners office June 13. The commissioners would then schedule a final hearing for the project.

That hearing should occur in August. If the project is approved, work would begin in the fall, Conley said.

Assembly prepares major votes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — After several weeks of dabbling in mostly minor legislation, majority Democrats apparently are ready to begin acting on significant measures in the legislature.

The House Rules Committee scheduled floor votes today on bills permitting local option elections on the sale of high powered beer (six per cent) and wine on Sunday.

Representatives also were to vote on a once-vetoed (by GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes) bill protecting homeowners from double liability in home construction and repair contracts.

The latter, a repealer of the mechanics' lien law, for one and two-family residential units, has been in at least the last two state platforms of the Democratic party.

Rhodes sidetracked it last year after being presented with a highly technical measure he said failed to accomplish the intended purpose. Even some Democrats agreed as his veto stood.

The House, moving somewhat faster than the Senate, plans to vote Thursday on another measure vetoed by the governor last session. It requires automatic smoke detector systems in high rise apartment buildings 75 feet in height or taller.

To no avail, some members of the Senate Rules Committee attempted Tuesday to schedule a floor vote on a constitutional amendment repealing Ohio's antiquated $750,000 debt limit.

However, Senate Minority Leader Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, objected, and Assistant Majority Leader M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, was unable to muster the needed votes in the absence of Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron.

Ocasek and House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, both have defended this year's slower than usual pace of the legislature—in session nine weeks now. The essence of their comments have been that there is no need to rush important bills.

In addition, the winter energy crisis and deliberations on a skin tight budget for the next two years have been cited by them as extenuating circumstances.

Committee actions again Tuesday overshadowed floor deliberations, in both chambers.

The Senate approved 31-1 a measure that deletes from the law an exemption from jury duty for members of the Ohio National Guard. It now goes to the House.

By overwhelming margins, the House sent the upper chamber a proposal to facilitate withdrawals of cash from joint bank accounts after the death of one partner. Democrats prevailed along party lines on another seeking to resolve a political feud in Cincinnati over operation of its city-owned railroad. Trustees of the Cincinnati Southern Railway now are all Republicans. The bill would put the power to name trustees in the hands of Democratic Mayor James Luken.

Carter lifts ban on Red journeys

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today termed inappropriate the apology ventured by a U.S. diplomat for alleged American involvement in the overthrow of a left-wing Chilean government, and at the same time announced the end of the ban on American travel to four Communist nations.

In repudiating the statement on Chile by United Nations envoy Brady Tyson, Carter acknowledged that the United States "has been at fault in some instances" for infringing on human rights accords. But he did not put the 1973 overthrow of Chilean President Salvador Allende in that category.

He said, instead, that the American travel ban was such an instance, and that it will be lifted effective March 18. That will permit U.S. citizens to travel to Cuba, Vietnam, North Korea and Cambodia.

Tyson said in Geneva that he exceeded his instructions but did not act contrary to them in apologizing for what he said was American involvement in the ouster of Allende.

"I think the remarks made by the delegate concerning our past involvement in Chilean internal affairs was inappropriate," he told his third White House news conference. Carter said a Senate committee has not found any proof that the United States was involved in Allende's overthrow but only in financial aid to some political groups in Chile.

"The statement made by our delegate was made on his own and does not represent the view of our government," Carter said.

He linked that episode with the broader question of human rights under the Helsinki agreement, saying that the administration remains concerned about that issue. Carter noted that administration officials will go to Belgrade later this year to join in assessment of the human rights accords.

During the presidential campaign, Carter himself had said the United States was involved in the Allende overthrow. On Oct. 6, in campaign debate, he said the Republican administration "overthrew an elected government and helped establish a military dictatorship."

Carter began the news conference with his announcement about travel to the four Communist nations.

He warned that Americans who want to visit those nations should take precautions because the United States has no diplomatic relations there and the establishment of such ties is "a doubtful prospect at this point."

Carter's announcement at a nationally broadcast news conference confirmed reports that had surfaced earlier at the State Department.

Carter also said he is sending Congress a $1.5-billion, youth employment program as part of his economic stimulation plan. He said it will seek the creation of about one million full-time jobs and one million summer jobs to counter extraordinarily high unemployment among young people, particularly minorities in urban areas.

Carter's economic stimulus program had been criticized recently by big city mayors for not doing more to produce summer jobs for young people.

During the news conference, the President also made these points:

—Said his commitment to withdraw ground troops from Korea has not changed. During the campaign, Carter favored a gradual withdrawal of ground troops. Any withdrawal, he said, would be accomplished over a four-to-five year period and would have to be done in cooperation with the governments of South Korea and Japan.

—Speaking about the Middle East, the President said there may have to be some "minor adjustment" to borders established after the 1967 Israeli-Arab war. "We will know by mid-May the positions of the interested parties," Carter said.

He said he could not discuss details of new borders in the Middle East because he has not yet met with Arab leaders. The issue of new borders, he said, "is obviously one of the most serious problems."

—Asked about reports of a grand jury investigation of former CIA Director Richard Helms and whether Carter had asked for CIA documents about the matter, the President said: "I have not been asked for any documents and the Helms case has not come to my attention. Whether to proceed with the case will be the exclusive right of the Justice Department."

A grand jury reportedly is probing whether Helms lied to a congressional committee.

—Expressed complete confidence in Paul Warnke to be the U.S. arms negotiator. He acknowledged that he was concerned over the lack of confidence shown in Warnke during the Senate fight on his nomination. Asked whether the Senate debate would have

Tax rebate measure clears U.S. House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fights over plans for a $50-per-person rebate and a new business tax break are likely to continue during Senate action on the House-approved version of President Carter's program to stimulate the economy.

The tax reduction bill, worth $43.1 billion during the next 31 months, was passed Tuesday by the House, 282 to 131, after battles over features giving 200 million Americans up to $50 each this spring and summer and creating a new job-stimulating tax cut mainly for smaller businesses.

A key vote on the rebates came when the House, by 219 to 194, rejected a Republican-backed attempt to substitute an across-the-board tax cut in place of the rebates.

The Senate Finance Committee continues hearings today on the tax cut measure. Senate Republicans also oppose the rebates and favor a permanent tax cut plan instead.

By 312 to 103, the House accepted its Ways and Means Committee's changes, including a phaseout of the $50 rebates for persons making between $25,000 and $30,000. Families or individuals with income of $30,000 or more would get no rebates.

Carter's recommended $50 special payment to each beneficiary of Social Security, railroad retirement, or Supplemental Security Income for the aged, blind and disabled was expanded to include those getting welfare under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program, coal miners suffering black-lung disease, and persons getting veterans pensions.

While the tax rebates would go out in May and June, most of the special payments would be mailed in late summer.

The bill would permanently reduce taxes for 45.5 million couples or individuals, mostly with incomes under $15,000. This tax cut, to be reflected in paychecks starting in May, would come by raising the standard deduction for taxpayers who do not itemize deductions.

The current system of minimum and maximum standard deductions would any effect, Carter said that "I don't believe the exact vote in the Senate will have an effect on the future negotiations with the Soviet Union on SALT (strategic arms limitation talks)."

—Said he would talk to a man holding a hostage in Ohio if the gunman released his captive. Cory Moore, a 25-year-old black man, has been holding a white policeman hostage since Monday, demanding to talk to Carter about what he said was oppression of blacks.

The President said he was concerned that the Ohio case might be a precedent. "It is a dangerous precedent to make. I weighed that before my own decision ... I hope the police officer is released, but if he is released I would talk to him (Moore)."

be replaced by a flat $2,400 for single persons and $3,000 for couples.

It would produce a $166 annual tax cut for a family of four with an income of $12,500 who do not itemize. Itemizers would get nothing, but tax experts estimate 5.5 million will find it to their advantage to take the standard deduction.

The legislation also would extend through 1978 the current temporary tax reductions for individuals and businesses, including the present $35 tax credit and a bonus of up to $400 for working poor families.

Massive explosion hits Wyandot County

CAREY, Ohio (AP) — A dynamite blast tore through a rock quarry in rural Wyandot County early today, hurling debris a mile away and causing damage to homes in a five-mile radius. There were no injuries.

Sheriff Mark R. Kauble said the blast, which occurred at 3:46 a.m. EST, formed a crater 100 feet long by 80 feet wide and 50 feet deep.

The sheriff said 40,000 to 50,000 pounds of dynamite were involved in the blast at the National Lime and Stone Co., one mile north of Carey, creating a shock wave that was felt as far away as Detroit, more than 100 miles from the scene.

The sheriff estimated damage would run into thousands of dollars.

Asked why the blast caused no injuries, the sheriff said, "That has to be an answer only God can answer. We're surprised nobody was injured."

"We have about 25 men in the area interviewing neighbors and stuff and I'm relatively certain that we would have had a report if there had been any injuries in the area," he said.

Carey is located about 60 miles from Toledo in northwestern Ohio. The town is known as a center for religious cures. The Roman Catholic church possesses a replica of a 17th century Luxemburg

Stock list goes lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed lower today, extending the decline that set in late in Tuesday's session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell more than 30 points in early trading, and losers took a 3-2 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the rally in stock prices last week and Monday had failed to impress many investors because it came on sluggish volume.

Tuesday's weak showing seemed to convince traders that the upswing had run its course.

Looming in the immediate future was the scheduled report Thursday on the government's wholesale price index for February, which was expected to show the adverse effects of eastern cold and western drought.

Today's early prices included Digital Equipment, down 1/4 at 41 1/2; Xerox, off 1/4 at 50 3/4, and Texaco, up 1/8 at 27 1/8.

On Tuesday, the Dow Jones industrial average fell 3.08 to 952.04.

Advancing and declining issues on the NYSE were virtually even.

Big Board volume totaled 19.52 million shares, up from 17.41 million on Monday.

The NYSE's composite index lost .19 to 54.83.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .16 at 111.42.

'Young driver problem' eyed in highway safety campaign

COLUMBUS — In kicking off a month-long campaign to dramatize what he called the "young driver problem", State Highway Safety Director Robert Chiaramonte today pointed out that Ohio's 1976 traffic death toll among 15-19 year olds was significantly high than in any other age group.

"When we talk about a 'young driver problem', we are not suggesting that every young person is an irresponsible driver," said Chiaramonte. "In fact, we're certain that the majority of 15-19 year olds who are licensed try to drive in a safe and sensible manner."

But the highway safety chief went on to cite provisional 1976 statistics which show that 388 young Ohioans between the ages of 15 and 19 lost their lives in traffic accidents last year—by far the highest death toll for any single age group and substantially higher than the combined toll for the 30-34, 34-39, 40-44 and 44-49 year old age groups added together.

"When you consider that 15-19 year olds make up less than 10 per cent of the total driving population, but accounted for more than 20 per cent of all last year's traffic deaths, I think it is clear we need to examine the record and find ways to reduce this tragic waste," Chiaramonte said.

He provided the following details on 1976 Ohio traffic fatalities involving persons in the 15-19 year old age group: —Of 388 young people killed, 275 were males while 113 were females. —266 of the 388 fatalities occurred after dark while 122 fatalities were recorded during daylight hours.

—259 of the 388 fatalities occurred in a rural setting—predominantly on state highways and county roads—while 129 deaths resulted from accidents within the corporation limits of a city or town.

—Fewer than half of last year's traffic deaths among 15-19 year olds were caused by collisions with other motor vehicles. Nearly half of all fatalities in this age group resulted from one-car crashes. In these accidents, the driver lost control, ran off the road and overturned or collided with a fixed object.

Summing up the statistical information, Chiaramonte said the scenario for a "typical" fatal accident involving 15-19 year olds would find a teenaged male losing control of his car or colliding with another vehicle while driving on a rural road after dark, with one or more passengers in the car.

Based on last year's experience, he added, passengers would be nearly as likely to sustain fatal injuries as the driver himself.

"I think it is vital that we raise public consciousness about the seriousness of Ohio's traffic death toll among young people," said Chiaramonte.

"Over the next four weeks, the Ohio Department of Highway Safety will be issuing further news releases on the underlying reasons for the high death toll among our teenagers, and suggesting some steps to take to save lives in 1977," he concluded.

What's new at the library?

Book nook

By KATHY HALVERSON
Children's Librarian
Carnegie Public Library has been besieged by children wanting the books of the Hardy Boys and Nancy Drew series. This, as every parent knows, is due to the television serialization of these popular sleuths adventures. Because of the tremendous demand, a child may come to the library and discover that all of the library's numerous copies of these two series are checked out. That is, however, no reason to leave empty-handed or disappointed; for your library has many other mystery series with exciting adventures every bit as chilling and thrilling as those of Nancy and the Hardys.

For the young series mystery fan there is:

"Alfred Hitchcock & the Three Investigators"
By William Arden & M.V. Carey
The three investigators are youthful sleuths and include Jupiter Jones, leader of the group, who has a remarkable talent for scenting trouble; Pete Crenshaw, athletic, but with a sensible desire to keep out of danger; and finally Bob Andrews, the quiet one of the group whose talent is record keeping and investigation. "We investigate anything" is their slogan. Their official headquarters is an abandoned mobile home in the Jones Salvage Yard in Rocky Beach, a small community near Hollywood. Titles in the series include: The Mystery of Monster Mountain, Mystery of the Singing Serpent, Mystery of the Invisible Dog, Mystery of the Silver Spider and Mystery of the Fiery Eye. "Secret Seven Adventures"
By Enid Blyton

This is a very popular series and one that keeps the kids asking for more. All the secret seven books feature seven children, Peter, Janet, Jack, Colin, Barbara, Pam, George and their dog Scamper. Each book is complete in itself and the books can be read in any order. Various titles in this series include: Mystery of the Empty House, The Circus Adventure, The Railroad Mystery, Old Fort Adventure and The Case of the Old Horse.

"Spotlight Club Mysteries"
By Florence Heide
Three young mystery lovers form a detective club to solve the mysteries that seem to practically fall into their laps. One of the books even features a secret message on the cover. Various

Legislative goals subject for district VFW meeting

CIRCLEVILLE — The 1977 legislative goals of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be discussed March 13 at a meeting of the VFW's District 11 at Post 3331, 217 N. Court St., Circleville. Eugene Hill is the post commander.

The Circleville post will host representatives from Union, Delaware, Licking, Madison, Franklin, Fairfield, Fayette, Pickaway and Hocking counties, representing nearly 10,000 overseas veterans. Carl Bair, of Baltimore, is the district commander.

Energy policy leadership urged

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AP) — Gov. Otis R. Bowen is being called on by a group representing 15 southern Indiana cities to put the state on the right track as far as energy policy is concerned.

Dr. Bruce Wallace, executive director of the America Resources Association of Southern Indiana, wrote Bowen suggesting a meeting with its officials.

"Events of the past few months are firm evidence that Hoosier residents, businesses, industry and local government are willing to sacrifice to help Indiana live within our energy supply," he wrote.

He urged the governor to provide leadership in straightening out information and reducing confusion about relationships between local and national energy programs.

Bair says the VFW seeks increased compensation rates for service-connected disabled veterans, additional pension for World War I veterans, the highest quality medical care in all VA facilities, the preservation and extension of the Veterans Preference Act in Civil Service hiring and an all-out effort by government and the private sector to obtain jobs for veterans of the Vietnam era.

Bair said the VFW also seeks a national defense posture second to none, including construction of the B-1 bomber. Additionally, the VFW wants Congress to formulate a plan for universal military training for all U.S. citizens in a specific age group. The plan would be held in readiness should the present all-volunteer forces experiment prove unworkable.

The state organization of the VFW will be represented at the Circleville meeting by Glen Rohr of Canal Fulton, its judge advocate.

The fifth meeting of the Spools and Spoons 4-H Club was held in the home of Mrs. Heather Parker. The meeting was called to order by Christy Cutlip, president. The girls repeated the Pledge of Allegiance and 4-H Pledge, led by Denise Taylor.

Roll call was answered by favorite songs. Denise Taylor gave a report on "Poisons." There was no health report or demonstrations.

The girls went into sewing and cooking groups, and discussed their projects. Refreshments were served by Loraine Moore, Christy Cutlip and Janelle Von Bargaen.

The next meeting will be March 16 in the home of Mrs. Margit Wilson.

Busing certain in Columbus?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — School officials here will be hard pressed to avoid busing of some pupils away from neighborhood schools if they are to meet desegregation guidelines set by a federal judge.

U.S. District Judge Robert M. Duncan ordered the Columbus and state boards of education Tuesday to submit racial balance plans for the 1977-78 school year to him within 90 days.

The two school boards have until March 18 to appeal to the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, but preparation of a remedy plan must go ahead during the appeals process.

Duncan said the appeals court decision in the Dayton desegregation case which led to limited crosstown busing in that city set a "binding precedent" for his Southern District court.

His 86-page opinion found state and local officials guilty of depriving black Columbus school children of their constitutional rights to equal protection under the law. They were assessed court costs and ordered to remedy the situation brought to the court by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"Each black school child in Columbus must have an opportunity for the integrated education and attendant educational advantages contemplated by Brown 1 and the case which have followed," Duncan wrote.

The landmark 1954 U.S. Supreme Court decision in the Brown versus the Topeka, Kan., Board of Education case wiped out the concept of "separate but equal" schools. Duncan said schools in the state's second largest district were "openly and intentionally segregated" before that decision and since then school officials have "for the most part ignored repeated requests for an integrated educational system."

Racially isolated housing patterns interacted with schools promoting segregation in each, he said.

"I do not suggest that any reasonable action by the school authorities could have fully cured the evils of residential segregation," Duncan said. "I do believe, however, that the Columbus defendants could and should have acted to break the segregative snowball created by their interaction with housing."

He banned any new construction of school facilities in Columbus, unless first approved by him.

Black pupils amount to 32.5 per cent of the nearly 96,000-pupil Columbus school system.

An appeal was expected in the case, although neither school board was ready to announce such a step Tuesday.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Martin W. Essex, who was named individually as a defendant, said he did "not accept the opinion that the state school board was negligent or had any segregational intent."

"At no point," Essex said, "was the Department of Education or the state school board acquainted with any report by anyone that illegal acts were taking place in the Columbus schools and we cannot accept this as a valid conclusion."

Duncan said the state was asked in 1971 by the Columbus Area Civil Rights Council to move on desegregation in the city's schools.

Traffic Court

Four men were found guilty of driving while intoxicated by Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case Tuesday.

Ronnie G. Glassco, 33, New Holland, was fined $250 by Judge Case and had his driver's license suspended for 90 days. He also received a 20-day jail sentence, but 17 days of the sentence were suspended providing he does not patronize any liquor permit premises in Fayette County for one year.

Thomas W. Bowles, 43, of 512 W. Elm St., was fined $250 and sentenced to six days in jail. He also had his license suspended for 60 days. He was also fined $50 for driving left of center.

David J. Reek, 20, Middletown, was fined $200, received a three-day jail sentence, and had his operator's license suspended for 60 days. A charge of speeding was dismissed.

Steve L. Greene, 18, Fairborn, was fined $200 and received a three-day jail sentence. He has no operator's license.

There were also six speeding waivers signed in Municipal Court Tuesday.

Lawrence T. Castoe, 46, Worthington; James R. Taylor, 38, Columbus; Eileen C. Inman, 27, Berea; John E. Seaman, 72, Leesburg; Joseph W. Mager, 50, Lancaster; and Betty M. McNeill, 50, of 206 Grand Ave. all signed $30 waivers.

Municipal Court

Morris (Pete) Clark, 1119½ Willard St., was fined a total of $200 and sentenced to five days in jail after being found guilty of three separate charges in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Tuesday.

Clark received the jail sentence and a $100 fine on a criminal mischief charge. He was fined $50 each for falsification and consuming alcohol in a motor vehicle.

Audrey A. Hoagland, 401 Peddicord Ave., was fined a total of $100 in Municipal Court Tuesday.

She was found guilty of disorderly conduct by intoxication and parking on a road way.

Fumes hurt attendance

CINCINNATI (AP) — Chemical fumes are causing visitors to run away from Mother Nature at a 1,010-acre county park here.

William Canedy, Hamilton County park district director-secretary, has warned that attendance at the Shawnee Lookout Park may have to be restricted because of chemical fumes from a nearby industry.

An archeology hike in the park about three weeks ago had to be curtailed, Canedy reported, because of "strong fumes which made one person ill."

A total of 65 persons on the hike had to leave the park while holding handkerchiefs over their faces.

The fumes generally settle in valleys of the southwestern Hamilton County park and "it's so serious at times you can hardly see to drive in parts of the park," Canedy said.

Canedy told park commissioners it may become necessary to close parts of the park at times of the day when the fumes are at their worst.

The source of the fumes "evidently" is the Kaiser Agricultural Chemicals plant, Canedy said.

Commissioners instructed Canedy to write the board chairman of Kaiser Agricultural corporate headquarters in Oakland, Calif.

Dancer's success in Jug race illustrated in Rotary movie

The success of Stanley Dancer in the Little Brown Jug pacing classic at Delaware was illustrated in a movie presented at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club Tuesday in the Country Club.

The color, sound movie was presented to Rotarians by Phil Pikelny, publicity director for the U.S. Trotting Association in Columbus.

The film was produced by the U.S. Trotting Association and narrated by Dancer. The dialogue was written by Pikelny.

In the film, Dancer, one of harness racing's most famous driver-owner-trainers, expressed his thoughts about racing in what he called "the premier pacing event in the harness horse world."

Last year Dancer won the Little Brown Jug with Keystone Ore and called the victory one of his greatest thrills since he had been disappointed the year before when heavily-favored Albattross lost.

Dancer's behind-the-scenes preparations were shown along with last year's actual two-heat elimination race.

Keystone Ore won easily to capture the second jewel of pacing's triple crown and provide Dancer with his four Little Brown Jug winner. Despite a loss in the Messenger Stake at Roosevelt Raceway in New York, the third jewel of the triple crown, Keystone Ore was named as the "Harness Horse of the Year."

The meeting was conducted by club president Dr. George Pommert. The program was arranged by Max Lawrence.

Visiting Rotarians were Dan Drake, of Wilmington, and Art Dick, Jay Joslin and James Johns, all of Mount Sterling. Student guests were Randy Beekman of Miami Trace High School and Milan Newman of Washington Senior High School.

Mrs. Carter talks of new life, goals, dreams

First Lady disapproves of unwed couples living together

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Carter is weighing some important policy decision, he doesn't have to ask his wife for her advice. "I tell him what I think," says First Lady Rosalynn Carter.

In an exclusive interview Tuesday, the First Lady also said she disapproves of couples living together without being married because "I'm kind of old fashioned about things like that."

She said she wouldn't hesitate to send one of her children to a psychiatrist if necessary, and that she hopes her daughter, Amy, will receive sex education both at home and at school. And she doesn't serve liquor at the White House, she said, because "I just don't want to. Not for religious reasons. I just don't want to .... Besides, I'm saving the taxpayers' money."

In her first interview since becoming First Lady, Mrs. Carter offered a glimpse into her family's new life, her goals and dreams.

Sitting behind a cluttered desk in her small quarters on the opposite side of the White House from her husband's grand Oval Office, Mrs. Carter cupped her chin in her hands and talked for some 40 minutes about both foreign policy and personal concerns.

Mrs. Carter, who has an interest in mental health programs, said no one in her immediate family has had psychiatric care, but if one of her children needed it, "I'd seek it for them. Of course, I would."

As for 9-year-old Amy's sex education: "I hope we can talk to her at home. I hope she'll get it at school. I think it's very important, but I haven't thought about at what age it should begin."

She said that even if criminal penalties for smoking marijuana were removed, she wouldn't want her family or friends to use it "because not enough research has been done to see how harmful it is."

And if someone were to light up in the White House?

"I would disapprove," she said. The President said last week that the taxpayers are not paying for the Carters to live in the White House and Mrs. Carter expanded on that. "Every bit of food that is served to the family and to our guests is paid for out of our personal funds," Mrs. Carter said.

She added that the Carters pay for their clothes and such items as dry cleaning, but said she has no idea how much the family spends a week for food. She still hasn't received her food bill for February.

"We eat things like ham and turkey casserole," she said. "And today (daughter-in-law) Annette asked if we could have spaghetti one night. We don't eat steak and roast beef every night."

Asked if the Carters are supporting their two married sons and their families, Mrs. Carter said, "Jeff helps pay for everything. Chip works part-time for the Democratic National Committee, and Jimmy pays Chip out of his personal funds because he needs him. Chip's a great help. We give him a check every month. Jeff and Annette have worked and saved money, and they use their own money. We pay for food."

Jeff Carter, 24, is a student at George Washington University. And Chip Carter, who will be 27 next month, makes about $8,000 at the Democratic headquarters. His wife, Caron, had a baby this month.

Mrs. Carter said her goal as First Lady is "for every person who needs mental health care to be able to receive it close to his home, and to remove the stigma from mental health care so people will be free to talk about it and seek help. It's been taboo for so long to admit you had a mental health problem."

As honorary chairwoman of the President's mental health commission, she plans to travel around the country meeting with professionals, parents of mentally afflicted children and possibly patients.

Mrs. Carter will continue to lobby for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, but she is not sure if it will become law. "If it's not ratified, I guess we can get it introduced again and start over. But it's so discouraging," she said.

Asked how she can ask the news media to ignore Amy, then take her places where she will be in the public eye, Mrs. Carter snapped:

"She has always been in the public eye. Amy was three when Jimmy was elected governor. We took her everywhere with us. She often hated to go, but we'd let her take a book. She doesn't pay any attention to the publicity. She doesn't read newspapers; she doesn't watch the news, and she has learned to ignore reporters."

Mrs. Carter said her daughter doesn't receive an allowance and that her responsibilities include picking up her toys and her books.

"We let her go to state dinners because we like her to be with us. We don't make her go. She always says she doesn't want to, then when she sees me putting on a long dress, she decides she wants to put one on, too," Mrs. Carter said.

Amy takes books to the formal occasions, because "she's fidgety and can't sit still." Besides, Mrs. Carter asked with a smile, "If you were going to that kind of party, wouldn't you like to take a book?"

Asked what her greatest dream would be, Mrs. Carter paused for a long moment before saying simply, "We all dream for a full and productive life for our children."

And I said,
"Show me some sofas."

Former Chamber executive accepts post in Virginia

James W. Dunn, former executive vice president of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, has accepted a position with the Suffolk, Va. Chamber of Commerce.

The 29-year-old Dunn has served as executive vice president of the Sandusky, Ohio, Chamber of Commerce for the past two years.

He accepted the position in Sandusky after serving as executive vice president of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce from 1972 to October 1974.

Dunn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Dunn, U.S. 35-SE, is a 1965 graduate of Miami Trace High School. Dunn came to the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce from Devil's Lake, N.D., where he served in a similar capacity for nearly two years.

He and his wife, Sally, have two children, Scott, and Julie.

Court may be closed

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dennis J. Kucinich, court clerk here, said Tuesday he may have to shut down the courts after being informed all but $500,000 has been sliced from his $2 million budget.

"With no budget, I am forced to make preparations to shut down the courts," Kucinich said.

Kucinich said he will have to lay off all 111 employees in his office, stop collecting fines and cease every other function of his office if the funds are not reinstated.

Judge Edward F. Katalinas, Cleveland Municipal Court administrative judge, said, "The courts are not going to close. The clerk may close his office, but I will not allow the courts to be shut down."

At issue is about $1.5 million in undistributed court costs which Kucinich has invested in certificates of deposit. Kucinich has been paying the city interest on the money.

The Cleveland City Council and city administration have demanded the money be deposited in the city treasury and have cited a state law requiring the clerk to deposit unclaimed funds by April 1 each year.

Kucinich said state law requires him to hold the money until his office attempts to determine who it belongs to.

The council then announced it has cut his budget by the $1.5 million.

A meeting was scheduled today between Kucinich and council representatives to seek a compromise.

Farm land mostly dry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warm weather and some rain in parts of the country last week helped farmers with their spring field work, but most of the nation's midsection and far West still need much more precipitation, according to the Agriculture Department.

"Soil moisture was short in the North Central states, and in the West," the department said Tuesday. Elsewhere soil moisture ranged from adequate to surplus.

Some precipitation as rain or snow "temporarily improved" the moisture situation in some of the North Central area, officials said.

"Southern pastures greened and provided a limited amount of forage to cattle herds," the report said. "In northern areas pastures greened but did not grow enough to be grazed."

YCC summer work program applications due on March 15

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR) reminds Ohio youths ages 15-18 interested in conservation work to apply for a spot in the Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) program by Tuesday, March 15.

Sponsored by ODNR, in cooperation with the U.S. Departments of agriculture and interior, YCC will provide four weeks employment for 1,000 Ohio youngsters this summer.

"We are having an excellent response to this popular program and we are urging interested youths to file their applications as soon as possible," said natural resources department director Robert W. Teater.

Applications for the 1977 work-learn program are available from all Ohio junior and senior high schools, vocational schools and offices of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services.

The youths will perform conservation work on state and federally-owned facilities, attending one of two four-week camp sessions in June, July and August. Both residential and non-residential camps will be provided in Ohio.

YCC projects include trail construction, land reclamation, timber stand improvement, erosion control and wildlife habitat improvement.

As a part of YCC, conservation education programs will be offered under the guidance of experts in the environmental and resource management fields.

All applications should be completed according to the instructions on the form provided and mailed to: YCC Selection Office, P.O. Box 23400, L'Enfant Plaza, Washington, D.C. 20024.

Participants in the 1977 YCC program will be selected at random without regard to social, economic, racial or ethnic background with the aid of a computer setup in Washington, D.C.

Applicants will be notified in early April whether or not they have been selected.

Students whose schools or employment offices are out of YCC applications and information material, should urge them to obtain additional supplies from the Office of Employee Services, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus 43224 or phone (614) 466-5960.

Canned food gets sterilization test

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A method for sterilizing canned foods has been developed by Ohio State University to reduce energy needed by food processors.

The direct-flame technique reduces energy use by 30 per cent, Dr. Wilbur A. Gould, professor of horticulture, said.

"This and other energy-saving techniques are becoming increasingly important to the food industry as it attempts to hold production costs in line in the face of rising energy costs," Gould said.

147 E. Court St. 111 S. Fayette St.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The always sensitive issue of school prayer is set for another go-round in the legislature and the lines have already been drawn.

"We have often heard how one or two people, or at least a small minority has been able to remove practically all references to anything of a spiritual nature from our public activities," said

Rep. Dale Locker, D-80 Anna. "It seems to me that it is about time we make our collective voice heard."

On the other side of the issue is the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, guardian of the separation of church and state principle. "We will oppose the present language," ACLU Ohio Director Benson Wolman said of the Locker bill.

Locker, a teacher, has essentially revived a bill that was introduced late in the previous session. It received several hearings but was never voted out of committee.

The new bill, set for a hearing Tuesday in the House Education Committee, directs that boards of education "shall require each teacher" to provide one minute of silence in class each day for "meditation and prayer."

Simple enough. It is based on a Massachusetts law in an obvious effort to skirt the U.S. Supreme Court decision against school prayer by making prayer optional for the pupil.

"As sponsor of the bill, I want to make it clear that is not the intent to force anyone to accept or take part in a specific demonstrational prayer,"

Locker said. "The sole purpose is to allow time, at the beginning of each school day, for the students to pause and think beyond their immediate surroundings."

The problem with that, in Wolman's view, is the mandatory "shall require" clause and writing the word "prayer" into statutory law.

"Teachers will say, 'all right everybody, it's time for prayer.'"

Wolman contends. "It would be an open legitimatization for what already goes on."

Wolman said the ACLU could accept a permissive bill that did not make a specific reference to prayer.

"We could live with a period of silence for meditation, but not meditation or prayer," he said.

Things almost got out of hand during proponent hearings on the previous bill in the House Judiciary Committee. One Protestant minister attempted to lead a prayer in the hearing room and others, at times, came close to sermonizing in giving testimony on the bill.

House Education Committee chairman Robert J. Boggs, D-97 Jefferson, said he intended to permit witnesses "free expression" on the measure within a limited time frame.

Boggs said he asked Locker for assurances that proponents appearing before the panel were "constructive."

The 28-year-old full time legislator, who is personally sympathetic toward the bill, said he planned to call for a committee vote after two or three hearings.

NEW YORK (AP) — Like many millions of Americans, Harry G. Elmstrom of Ballston Spa, N.Y., population about 5,000, thinks residential taxes are too high.

"When I bought my house in 1958 the taxes were about $300; now they're more than $1,200," said Elmstrom, whose small firm operates not far from Albany, N.Y. Everywhere, he said, "there have been fantastic increases in property taxes."

Elmstrom's concern is not only as a homeowner but as the president for this year of the 500,000-member National Association of Realtors, which fears the tax burden all but excludes some families as customers.

"We have to give strong consideration to spreading the burden, away from property," said Elmstrom, maintaining the hardship is sometimes insufferable for young families and retirees.

"The American homeowner is carrying a disproportionate share of local taxation, and we want this harmful situation straightened out," he said.

Taxes are by no means the only concern of Elmstrom; he has a long list that includes prices, rent control ("spreading like a cancer"), mortgage flexibility (he sees no reason why we shouldn't have 50-year mortgages).

consumer protection, and equal opportunity.

But, Elmstrom relates, there is also considerable good news in housing. Starts are expected to rise 1.8 million this year, or about 300,000 more than in 1976. Existing home sales are expected to grow also.

This latter market has been assuming phenomenal proportions, almost doubling since 1968. Last year

2,998,000 existing single-family transactions took place, with total dollar volume reaching a record $126.5 billion

Since real estate people obtain a commission — often 5 or 6 per cent on these sales, it would seem the resale market could hardly be better for them. But it probably will be — this year, when sales are expected to reach 3.4 million, for a market value of $155 billion.

State Rep. McEwen says

Relief may be one bill away

COLUMBUS — This has been a brutal winter for many Ohio property owners hit with a one-two punch of higher property taxes and increased maintenance and utility costs due to cold weather. But there may be a bit of good news for them this spring, according to State Rep. Bob McEwen of Hillsboro.

The Senate Ways and Means Committee last week approved legislation (Senate Bill No. 99) extending until May 1 the penalty deadline for persons who don't pay their property taxes on time.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Thomas Van Meter (R-Ashland), told the committee the extension would help homeowners, particularly the elderly, cope with this winter's unusual financial burdens. Property owners are normally charged a 10 per cent penalty for paying their property taxes late.

Van Meter stressed, however, that the bill must be acted on quickly to have any effect this year. It must still be approved by the full Senate and go through committee hearings and a floor vote in the House of Representatives.

The Senate Ways and Means Committee also approved a proposed constitutional amendment establishing a flexible debt limit for the state. Senate Joint Resolution 3 would authorize the legislature to issue notes backed by the state's full faith up to a certain percentage of the state's income in that year, according to McEwen.

Sen Donald E. (Buz) Lukens (R-Middletown) has proposed a "golden age package" of benefits for Ohio's 1,066,000 senior citizens. The legislation includes:

—A bill increasing from $10,000 to $15,000 the amount of income an elderly person may earn and still claim the homestead exemption for tax purposes;

—A resolution memorializing Congress to repeal the $2.30 per hour minimum wage law as it applies to older Americans;

—A bill allowing the Ohio Commission on Aging to promote establishment of non-profit, multi-purpose senior citizens centers;

—A bill requiring appointment of at least one senior citizen to each of 13 state boards and commissions that make decisions affecting seniors; and

—A bill giving lawyers an income tax deduction for free legal services to persons 62 years of age or older who qualify for the homestead exemption.

The House of Representatives last week voted to raise the state guarantee of student loans made by private lenders to 100 per cent from the present 90 per cent.

House Bill 152 also permits the Ohio Student Loan Commission (OSLC) to guarantee loans to non-resident students, and provides that the federal government will, within reasonable limits, assure the state 100 per cent reimbursement on defaulted loans the state must pay.

The bill would make about $20 million more in loans available to students attending state-supported universities. During the last fiscal year, defaulted loans under OSLC program amounted to $1.3 million, or 4.2 per cent of the $30.9 million guaranteed. Defaults are paid off through loan charges to students who borrow money through the program and from reserve funds the OSLC invests.

House Bill 152 also increases from $10,000 to $15,000 the amount graduate students can borrow from OSLC at seven per cent interest. The $7,500 limit on undergraduate loans would remain unchanged.

Area bankers to sponsor TV special

The Fayette Area Bankers Association, will co-sponsor an hour-long CBS TV special dealing with human conception, gestation and birth at 8 p.m. March 16.

"The Miracle Months" features ultra-modern photographic techniques to present biological events seen previously by only a few medical specialists.

Three women, each awaiting the birth of a child, are studied to demonstrate new techniques and technologies that enable physicians to observe, photograph, record and even aid the developing embryo to avoid prenatal hazards.

According to producers, The Tomorrow Entertainment Co., and Medcom, the world's largest company devoted solely to medical information programming, take the viewer on a motion picture journey inside the human body, and magnify it as much as 600,000 times normal size.

Some of the photographic techniques include fetoscopy (photography of the fetus in the womb), thermography (photographic translations of body tissue heat), and ultrasonics.

The "Miracle Months" is one of many television offerings that the Fayette Area Bankers Association will co-sponsor through its membership in the American Bankers Association.

Members of the Fayette Area Bankers Association are the Huntington Bank, the Fayette County Bank, the First National Bank of New Holland and BancOhio-First National Bank of Washington C.H.

AG DAY SLATED

At breakfast this morning, did you think about your food? Did you ponder the process through which it passed, from the farmer and rancher to the supermarket, to your breakfast table? These questions seem fitting because

Monday, March 21 is Ag Day across the nation, according to Gary Butts of Pitts Truck and Tractor Center, Robinson Road, the local International Harvester dealer.

Ag Day 1977 is aimed at building greater understanding of agriculture in the nation. The sponsor is the National Agri-Marketing Association and the national spokesman is actor John Wayne, a partner in a cotton and ranching operation in Arizona.

BUILDING SALES UP

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio — Sales of metal building systems shipped during 1976 increased 22 per cent, according to P.J. Trepanier, vice chairman of the Metal Building Manufacturers Association (MBMA) and general manager of the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Building Systems, one of 27 MBMA members.

MBMA sales were $705,412 as compared to $578,230,032 in 1975.

Steel tonnage used in metal building systems shipped during 1976 was 903,917, up 20 per cent from the 753,264 tons shipped in 1975.

"Armco building systems offer earlier occupancy, lower heating and cooling costs and easier expansion than conventionally designed and constructed commercial, industrial and institutional buildings," Trepanier said.

COMPLETE TRAINING

Bill Justice, Ron Huddleson and Don Little of Pitts Truck and Tractor Center, Robinson Road, have completed intensive training in troubleshooting and testing agricultural tractors.

The three men have just returned from four days of schooling in Columbus. They are service representatives at the local International Harvester dealership.

FLOOD OF INSURANCE

Ohioans have purchased nearly six times more flood insurance policies through the National Flood Insurance Program during a recent four-week period than were issued in the state in the entire 12 months of 1976.

According to the National Flood Insurers Association (NFIA), which administers U.S. flood insurance programs in partnership with the federal government, the extremely heavy flood insurance activity in Ohio and other states is a result of the abnormal amounts of snowfall and river ice in the state.

During the period of Jan. 24 through Feb. 18, approximately 10,472 new policies were received in Ohio by the Commercial Union Insurance Co. of Cleveland and CNA of Cincinnati (NFIA's servicing companies for the state). This compares with 1,860 policies issued in the state during the 12 months of 1976.

Low cost of flood insurance is available for residential, commercial and institutional structures and their contents in communities that are participating in the National Flood Insurance Program. Some 551 Ohio communities are now in the program.

Sophia Loren grilled by customs agents

ROME (AP) — Customs police held actress Sophia Loren overnight for questioning about her husband's finances, then let her fly to their home in Paris today.

The 42-year-old star was detained for nine hours at Rome's international airport. Police sources said she was interrogated in connection with an investigation into tax and currency activities of her husband, movie producer Carlo Ponti.

Last month police searched Ponti's office in Rome and the couple's villa in the hills south of Rome and seized some papers.

"The whole matter concerns explanations on routine customs matters," Miss Loren's chief attorney, Emmanuele Golino, said. "The questioning may also be connected with the financial status of Mr. Ponti and recent investigations begun by financial authorities."

Miss Loren was reported in tears during her long stay in the airport customs office. When she emerged just before boarding a 5:05 a.m. flight to Paris, she refused to answer reporters' questions but managed to smile for photographers.

Ponti met Miss Loren at the airport in Paris, but neither would discuss her interrogation.

"I'm tired because I haven't slept," she said. "That's all!"

"I don't want to talk now," said Ponti. "I just want to see my wife."

The Pontis have been French citizens for some years but still carry on much of their film activities in Rome. They maintain residences in both Paris and Rome.

Miss Loren had just walked through a passport checkpoint at the Rome airport about 7:30 p.m. when an officer stepped up and asked her some questions, witnesses reported.

They said the film star, wearing dark glasses, a dark blue gabardine pantsuit, silk shirt and blue woolen cap, appeared to wave off the questions, and the officer ordered her to follow him. Miss Loren, who was accompanied by a woman friend, carried a large suitcase as she followed the officer to the customs office.

The customs policeman who detained her, Luigi Imbimbo, claimed he had no orders to stop Miss Loren and at first did not realize who she was. He said he made a routine currency check, and "she had on her only a few thousand lire" (a few dollars).

"She was very polite, but I thought it was opportune to take her for a check with my superiors," said Luigi Imbimbo.

Police do well in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Columbus Division of Police received fewer complaints against police officers in 1976 than in the previous year, and officials noted that citizen commendations of officers exceeded the number of complaints by a 2-1 margin.

The police department said it received 438 citizen complaints against 644 police officers in 1976. In 1975, 714 complaints were lodged against 1,019 officers.

The number of unsolicited officer commendations was 1,023 last year, more than twice the number of complaints.

The department said 66 of the complaint cases were substantiated following an investigation, with a total of 84 police personnel subjected to disciplinary action.

One inch is equivalent to 2.54 centimeters.

Hope fades for quake victims

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Hope faded for trapped earthquake victims today as rescuers and trained dogs pressed a round-the-clock search through the rubble of collapsed apartment buildings.

"Last night the dogs found a family still alive over there," said a sergeant at the ruins of the Scala cafe and apartment house, "but when we got to them this morning, they were all dead — father, mother and daughter."

The official toll in Romania is still 1,034 dead, 810 of them in Bucharest, and 6,185 injured. But dead bodies are still being found in the rubble and have not been added to the total.

The Scala was one of 32 apartment buildings that collapsed in the Romania capital during the quake last Friday night. Three men and three dogs from the Swiss Catastrophe Dog Association searched at the ruins.

Aneta Balausan, 20, was found alive late Tuesday after being trapped for nearly 100 hours without food or water. She was taken to a military hospital where doctors said her crushed leg would have to be amputated below the knee. Her family was killed.

Temperatures that had been as high as 50 degrees dropped to near freezing Tuesday night, increasing the risk to trapped survivors of death from exposure. But except for a brief shower Monday, rescue workers have been helped by clear weather.

The workers said it would be days before they had cleared all the debris and recovered all bodies.

Meanwhile, Yugoslav officials said light tremors shook the area around Krusevac, about 95 miles south of Belgrade, Tuesday night and early today, but no damage or injuries were reported.

Foreign aid to the Romanian victims was picking up, with planes arriving or due from 13 nations. East Germany appeared to be taking the lead, sending one or more plane-loads of medical supplies and food daily.

Letters from readers of the Record-Herald

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

We would like to express our appreciation to the people of your city who were so kind and helpful to us during our tragic experience there a few days ago.

Especially those kind folk at the City Motel, the young men who answered our emergency call, the personnel at your hospital, the coroner, mortician and even strangers who were sympathetic.

All who live in your city are fortunate, indeed, to live in such a friendly town.

Mr. Joe Boord

Mrs. Gordon Stonecipher

EDITOR, REOCRD-HERALD:

My son's heart is broken over the loss of his best friend, Charles (Chuck) Wheeler.

Chuck was liked by everyone that knew him. Chuck loved baseball and was an outstanding pitcher. I just can't tell you what it's like to lose a friend like Chuck. Our hearts go out to his family and may God be with them in their time of sorrow.

Chuck was a happy teenager, always smiling, and he had a teasing way. There is so much to say about him but it's hard to find the words my heart wants to say.

God wanted a flower for his garden so he took Chuckie home to stay and we always will remember all the happy times we had with Chuckie from day to day.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I have seen and read of many articles in newspapers and I too wish to thank the Fayette County Life Squad and am grateful to the Fayette County Memorial Hospital for the medical attention that I received on February 25, at 5 p.m. But most of all, I want to thank police Specialist William Cales, who was called to the scene of the accident. To him, I was a total stranger. He didn't ask what is your social position in this community, he did not ask whom do know that I may inform him of your dilemma. He came upon the scene not knowing who I was, but for a few minutes, he held in his mind and heart the most precious thing I own, my rights as a free citizen of the United States of America.

I was in a state of semi-consciousness and I was at the mercy of anyone who dared trespass against me, but here was the one person who my very life depended on.

I wish to thank Specialist Cales for protecting my rights and for the kindness and courtesy he showed my family during this moment of crisis in my life.

Carter officials eye African policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carter administration officials are split over the future direction of U.S. policy toward Africa in what some diplomats see as a test of President Carter's commitment to human rights.

British Prime Minister James Callaghan, arriving here today, is expected to bring up in talks with Carter both Rhodesia, the breakaway British colony, and South Africa. Both are ruled by white minority governments.

Senior diplomats here say Carter seems torn by broadly conflicting arguments on future U.S. policy toward white-ruled African countries.

One argument, pushed by the President's personal appointees, is for the administration to announce all-out opposition to South Africa as the bastion of white supremacy on the continent.

The other argument, pressed by more cautious career State Department officials, favors a phased step-by-step approach to social change in white-ruled African nations.

"There's a battle going on for the soul of Jimmy Carter with his avowed commitments to human rights, morality in foreign affairs and the dignity of peoples," said one well-placed diplomat.

The go-slow advocates have British backing, which emerged last month when officials of the two nations conferred here on Rhodesia and on the over-all South African situation.

Sources say the Carter administration officials urging strong action against white minority regimes in Africa have been arguing that African and Asian nations expect no less than Carter's uncompromising opposition to South Africa's discriminatory practices.

South African blacks have no political franchise, their movements are subject to control and many live below the subsistence level.

These administration authorities argue that Carter will look hypocritical to the nonwhite peoples of the world if, with his stated commitment to human rights, he demonstrates no displeasure with the South African apartheid policy.

But sources say the other side has countered by warning Carter that the United States would be sucked into a bottomless pit of trouble if it tries to interfere. They say a withdrawal of U.S. investments from South Africa would create domestic and international difficulties without necessarily helping African blacks.

They advise Carter that it would be questionable if even friendly nations would back up the U.S. position and they warn that a Cuba-like boycott could turn into a political boomerang because other nations would take advantage of U.S. economic withdrawal.

Minor mishaps checked

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the Washington C.H. Police Department each investigated minor traffic accidents Tuesday on area parking lots.

Sheriff's deputies reported that a semi tractor-trailer rig rolled into another rig on the Garner's Truck Stop parking lot off U.S. 35-NW at 9:10 p.m.

The brakes on the rig, which was unoccupied apparently failed. Kenneth L. Anderson, 60, Sioux Falls, Neb., was the driver of the rig, which struck the parked rig driven by Jan S. Fox, 23, Natick, Mass.

Police officers reported that a car driven by David C. Morrow, 36, of 415 E. Court St., was backing from a parking space on the Ev's Fine Food lot, Columbus Avenue, when it struck a car driven by Mary M. Day, 63, of 1966 Jasper-Coil Road. The mishap occurred at 5:49 p.m.

Wilmington captures gold basketball

Hurricane clotheslines Lions for title

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor
WILMINGTON, Ohio—After three easy sectional tournament games and looking forward to a district crown, the Washington C.H. Blue Lions seemed to have too much on their minds to worry about such things as the Wilmington Hurricane or a South Central Ohio League crown.

After being beaten in their sectional tournament, the Hurricane had nothing else to look forward to but to beat the Blue Lions.

And, somehow, while the Lions weren't looking, the Hurricane tied them up and sat them in a corner of the Wilmington gym to watch Wilmington win the game, 64-54, and take an SCOL title for the first time since 1969.

"We didn't come to play. That's all," said a dejected Lions head coach Gary Shaffer in the locker room after the loss. "We had a problem of getting up for the tournament and then letting down tonight. But they're (Wilmington) a good team and they just outplayed us."

One key to success for Wilmington was the elimination of the Washington C.H. stars. Starting forward Terry Wilson picked up his third personal foul in the first quarter and never returned to action. Guard Dee Hart Foster fouled out with just 18 seconds gone in the fourth period. And, forward John Denen sat out nearly the entire second half after managing just eight points.

"It was of his own choosing," commented Shaffer of the Denen benching. "He wasn't playing well and he told me to take him out. And, he didn't get back in."

The Wilmington Hurricane will receive their gold basketball in recognition of a perfect league season at next Monday's SCOL winter sports banquet. All-league selections in the various winter sports will also be recognized and honored. The banquet will begin at 6:30 p.m. at Miami Trace High School.

The game was close throughout the first half with all the trimmings of a league title game. Wilmington drew first blood on a three-point-play by David Nared but it was answered quickly with baskets by Denen and Foster.

The lead teetered between the teams until it was tied at 7-7 before Nared made another shot to put the Hurricane on top by two. Then Wilson gained his third personal and was slapped with technical foul afterward and Wilmington went up by three.

Still, the Hurricane held just an 11-9 lead after one quarter.

Washington tied the game at 13-13 on a pair of free throws by Denen. Then Gary Williams scored on a lay-up to put the Hurricane back in the lead 15-13. Washington never saw the lead again.

Wilmington rushed to a five point lead late in the quarter. Then both teams lost valuable members as Nared and Foster each picked up personal foul number three less than a minute apart.

The Blue Lions fought back to within one point at 24-23, but Williams scored the final four points of the first half to put the 'cane in front, 28-23 at halftime.

Center Tom Dean of Washington C.H. kicked off the first half by sinking a pair of free throws to narrow the gap to 28-25. But, the Hurricane rolled off six unanswered points to take a 34-25 lead.

The final basket in the skein was a shuddering slam dunk from Williams that nearly tore the rim off the backboard. Williams was called for a technical foul for grabbing the rim, but the Blue Lions hopes of an SCOL co-championship were slammed through the nets by Williams.

Washington and Wilmington fought with each other throughout the rest of the quarter, and the Hurricane took a 47-40 lead into the finale.

Neither team could find the basket through the first three minutes of the fourth quarter, but Wilmington finally scored another five points in a row to take a 52-40 lead. By the time the Lions found the mark, the Hurricane was already celebrating a gold basketball performance and a 64-54 win.

Williams and Nared each led Wilmington with 18 points while taking scoring honors in the game. Sam McClelland and Dean led the Lions with 11 points each while Foster had 10.

Williams took rebounding honors with 20 while Denen led Court House with 13.

Wilmington finishes their season with a 16-3 overall record and a perfect 12-0 league mark. Washington C.H. ends up in second place and now sports a 17-4 overall record and ends with a 10-2 league mark.

The Blue Lions will play this Friday at the Ohio University Convocation Center against Nelsonville-York. Neither team will have momentum as the Buckeyes were beaten by Logan last Monday.

Lions reserves drop finale

The Washington C.H. reserves dropped their season finale to Wilmington last night, 49-38.

The Lions took an 11-9 lead in the first quarter but couldn't hold it and fell behind by five at halftime and eight after three quarters.

Steve Pritchett led the Lions with 11 points while Tom Bath had nine. Bob Brecha led all scorers for Wilmington with 21 points.

NOT THIS TIME, TOM — Washington C.H.'s Tom Dean fouled Dean in the process. The Hurricane took an undisputed SCOL title with a 64-54 win. Although Williams did block the shot.

MAKING THE GLASS SHINE — Gary Williams of Wilmington clears yet another rebound in last night's SCOL title match between the Hurricane and Washington C.H. Williams cleaned the glass backboards for 20 rebounds as Wilmington took their first SCOL crown since 1969.

Mifflin rips Circleville

DELAWARE, Ohio — A stubborn Circleville team fought state third ranked Columbus Mifflin to an early second half tie but then faltered in their upset bid of the Puncers, 53-42.

With the Tigers dropping from tournament play, the SCOL has just two representatives in post-season competition. Both Fayette County teams, Miami Trace and Washington C.H., are still alive and play the first round of their respective districts on Friday evening.

Mifflin came out in the first quarter with their guns and rang up 20 points on their way to a 20-14 lead after the first quarter. But, Circleville's pressure defense harried the Puncers in the second quarter, allowing them only eight points while trailing by 28-26.

As the third quarter began, The Tigers' Toren Bensonhaver hit the first shot of the half to tie the game at 28-28. But, Mifflin allowed no more scoring in the quarter from Circleville and took a commanding 36-28 lead after three periods.

From there, they coasted to their 52-43 win.

Bensonhaver led Circleville in scoring with 14 points as the only Tiger in double figures. Mifflin managed two players in the double digits as Dewey Milton and Chris Taylor scored 14 and 12 points.

Circleville winds up the season with a 13-8 record overall after being 6-6 in the SCOL.

CIRCLEVILLE (42)—Bensonhaver 6-2-14; Merrill 3-0-6; Wright 4-0-8; Huffer 1-2-4; Taylor 3-0-6; Milstead 1-0-2; Albright 1-0-2; Total 19-4-42.

Ford leads All-American team

NEW YORK (AP) — Dean Smith calls him the best guard in America, college or pro. What does Phil Ford think about that?

He doesn't think about that. "Individual honors are meaningless unless the team wins," says the North Carolina star. "There are no prima donnas on this team and that's the way I like it."

Perhaps Ford will not recognize his individual talents, but the nation's sports writers and broadcasters did Tuesday when they voted him in the 1977 Associated Press All-America basketball team.

Ford was joined on The AP's first team by forwards Marques Johnson of UCLA and Bernard King of Tennessee, guard Rickey Green of Michigan and center Kent Benson of Indiana.

Ford, who helped the U.S. Olympic team win a gold medal at Montreal last summer, did equally well for the Tar Heels this winter. Orchestrating Smith's famed "Four Corner" offense with his gifted ball-handling ability, the 6-foot-2 junior led North Carolina to the Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

Among his statistics are a 19-point scoring average, shooting marks of 55 per cent from the field and 84 per cent from the free throw line, and nearly seven assists a game.

Johnson scored the highest point total among the top five in the nationwide voting. Johnson had 824 points on the basis of five for the first team and three for second. Green was the second leading point-getter with 521. Ford collected 480, Benson 423 and King 389.

Benson was the only repeater from last year's first team. Ford was a second-team All-America in 1976 and King was on the AP's third team. King barely edged teammate Ernie Grunfeld for first-team honors.

On the second team along with Grunfeld, a forward who had 381 points, were San Francisco center Bill Cartwright, Houston guard Otis Birdsong, Minnesota center Mike Thompson and Marquette guard Butch Lee.

The third team included Rod Griffin of Wake Forest, Wayne "Tree" Rollins of Clemson, Phil Hubbard of Michigan, Bo Ellis of Marquette and Freeman Williams of Portland State.

AP names Gaillard college top coach

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Gaillard, who led the San Francisco Dons to their best basketball season since the Bill Russell years of the mid-1950s, was named The Associated Press College Coach of the Year today.

Gaillard, a low-key coach who encourages informality, won the award as easily as his team won games this season, more than doubling the score of his nearest competitor.

Balloting from sports writers and broadcasters around the country supplied Gaillard with 120 votes while runnerup Eddie Owens of Arkansas collected 52.

Carl Tacy of Wake Forest was third in the voting with a score of 30, while UCLA's Gene Bartow had 20 and Kentucky's Joe Hall 15 to round out the top five.

Gaillard's team is considered unusual because of the modish young leader's approach to coaching. There is no curfew on any occasion and Gaillard himself brags about the Dons being a "very virile, girl-loving team." He voices no concern if a player keeps late hours.

Explaining his unique philosophy, Gaillard says: "My obligation is to make the guys reach their potential, be competitive and have fun."

Guard Chubby Cox says the lack of curfew "allows us to be our own men. When you're given the opportunity to be your own man, you have more go, more self-pride. No one takes advantage of it."

Gaillard likes to contrast himself with coaches on the other end of the spectrum, the kind he calls "Marine sergeants."

"I'm as, or more, competitive than any of those guys. I just don't have to prove it. A lot of coaches live their competitiveness through their team. I don't."

Willis Reed slated as Knicks boss

NEW YORK (AP) — A white banner bearing a bright orange 19 hangs from the ceiling at Madison Square Garden, flanked by banners honoring the New York Knicks' 1970 and 1973 championship teams. No. 19, the only uniform the Knicks ever have retired, belonged to Willis Reed.

Reed is expected to become "the boss" today. The New York Knicks scheduled a news conference, and the news was expected to be that Reed would take over next season.

4 FOUR-IN-ONE A PARTNERSHIP DEVELOPERS OF REAL ESTATE

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG AP Newsfeatures Q. — There is floor tile on the kitchen floor of a house we moved into recently. Nobody seems to be able to tell us whether it is asphalt tile or vinyl asbestos. We'd like to know, since we have read that water will not harm asphalt but that cleaners with certain solvents will do so. In fact, we have some floor tile cleaner on hand that we would like to use up, but it says on the label not to use it on asphalt tile. What should we do?

A. — You'll have to test the cleaner on one of the tiles that is not conspicuous. Rub it over the tile, using a clean, white cloth. If any of the color comes off on the cloth, it means that the tile probably is asphalt and that you will have to purchase a cleaner or polish which does not contain a solvent.

enough to show what an accomplished carver can do?

A. — There are undoubtedly several such publications, but the one with which I am familiar is the National Carvers Review. For a sample copy, send 50 cents to National Carvers Review, 7821 S. Reilly St., Chicago, Ill. 60652.

Q. — In the near future I expect to do my first wallpapering job. I have read up on it extensively, including how to overlap the edges. Now someone tells me there is a way to overlap the edges so they do not show. Do you know anything about this?

A. — I assume your informant was referring to a little trick the professionals have of papering the wall so that the overlapping edges face away from the entrance. All that does is to prevent the edges from being seen as you enter the room. If you do a careful job, the edges will not be conspicuous in any case. I assume, also, you know that you can do away with the overlapping entirely if you buy pretrimmed paper, which enables you to butt the edges neatly.

Q. — I did some bleaching the other day on a wooden table. I used the kind of bleach you buy in a hardware store that comes in two containers. The result was pretty good, but after I finished, I discovered that I had ruined a fine paint brush I had. Did I make a mistake in using a paint brush and, if so, how should the bleach be applied?

A. — Bleach is applied with a brush in most cases, although wood finishing shops often use dipping methods. You probably used a brush with natural fibers, which are damaged by the chemical ingredients. The next time, use a brush with synthetic fibers. What the bleach did to your brush explains why you should always wear special gloves when using this product.

(The techniques of using varnish, shellac, lacquer, stain, bleach, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 30 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743. Questions can not be answered individually.)

Three blazes doused

No damage reported in area grass fires

Grass fires plagued Fayette County Tuesday afternoon, but no property damage was reported in three separate blazes.

The Washington C.H. Fire Department was called to 2906 Snow Hill Road on farm land owned by Silver Dollar, Inc., 1017 Clinton Ave., at 1:28 p.m.

Firemen used water and fire brooms to extinguish the blaze. Sparks from a trash barrel reportedly caused the fire. The Washington C.H. Fire Department received assistance from the Concord-Green Township volunteer fire department.

Ten minutes after receiving the first grass fire report, Washington C.H. firemen were called 1922 U.S. 22-SE to control another grass fire. The cause of the blaze, located on the Jim McWilliams farm, was undetermined.

At 2:04 p.m., two Fayette County sheriff's deputies spotted a grass fire while on routine patrol near the intersection of Ohio 734 and the Prairie Road.

The Jeffersonville Fire Department was dispatched to the scene and the fire was extinguished, according to deputies.

Deputies assist patrol in apprehending suspect

Two Fayette County sheriff's deputies assisted an Ohio Highway Patrol officer in apprehending a fleeing suspect at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

The sheriff's office received a call from the state highway patrol post in Wilmington asking for assistance. A trooper had reportedly made a routine traffic stop when the subject fled on foot.

Durward K. Jennings, of Zanesville,

Charles Dickens, commenting adversely on his visit to Upper Sandusky in 1842, wrote that he and his wife "spent a troubled night in a large ghostly room with doors that lacked fastening, both opening on the wild country whenever the wind blew."—AP

Bacteria launched in Frisco Bay

Army admits secret germ-warfare tests

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A censored report on 20 years of secret, domestic germ-warfare tests has prompted plans for a lawsuit by the family of a man who died in 1950 after Navy ships launched bacteria in San Francisco Bay.

But most officials expressed only surprise at the report, made public

Tuesday, which revealed Army tests conducted in highway and subway tunnels, stockyards, on military bases and at sea off numerous populated areas.

"The family is determined to proceed with legal action. We wanted to have as much evidence available as possible," said Edward Nevin III, an attorney whose grandfather, Edward Nevin, died of a heart infection allegedly caused by Serratia Marcescens bacteria.

It is this bacteria that was released from ships off San Francisco in September 1950, Army officials testified on Tuesday before the Senate subcommittee on health and scientific resources.

Their report said the Serratia Marcescens bacteria spread up to 50 miles inland, but it had been believed that the bacteria would not endanger humans.

Two years later, they said, researchers became alarmed by an outbreak of infectious disease related to Serratia Marcescens among San Francisco Bay area residents who had been hospitalized at about the time of the September 1950 test.

Despite the Army's alarm, however, California apparently noticed no strange illnesses. Bob Nance of the state Department of Health, said record checks for San Francisco and other cities from the time of the tests "found no unusual health situation."

Nevin said he felt the results of his private investigation of Army domestic germ tests from 1949 to 1969, combined with material contained in the Army report, were sufficient to file a claim.

He said the claim, which must be presented before the Army can be sued, would be filed within 30 days. The Army, which has denied any link between the tests and Nevin's death, would have six months in which to consider its merits, he said.

The Army report also said a farm owned by the University of Wisconsin was one of four sites where 48 tests involving "pathogenic agents," which are disease causing, were performed.

Glenn Pound, dean of the College of Agricultural and Life Sciences, said he believed the report referred to work on Newcastle disease, a virus afflicting chickens and other poultry.

Dr. B.C. Easterday of the university's department of veterinary science said Newcastle disease is a virus that affects poultry and which resembles bronchitis in its early stages, but later leads to incoordination, tremors and twitching of the head.

Police captain unharmed

Hostage freed after Carter pledges talk

WARRENSVILLE HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP) — A black gunman who had tried to drive whites off this planet under threat of a curse released his white policeman hostage of 45 hours unharmed today.

The release came shortly after President Carter repeated during a nationally televised news conference his earlier promise to speak with the ex-Marine after the hostage, Capt. Leo Keglovic, was freed.

Cory Moore, 25, emptied the bullets from his handguns and the guns and ammunition to Keglovic, 49, who then led Moore into custody outside the City Hall office that had been their home since Monday afternoon.

"Everybody's out, everybody's safe, nobody's hurt," Police Chief Craig Merchant said moments later.

The surrender came despite President Carter's refusal to grant Moore's demands that he talk with the ex-Marine before Keglovic was freed and that he apologize publicly for historic white oppression of blacks.

Moore, who got a television set by which to monitor news reports Monday night at the same time he released his other hostage, Shelley Ann Kiggins, 17, of Warrensville Heights, watched Carter's nationally televised White House news conference before giving up, authorities said.

In that news conference, Carter promised to talk with Moore after Keglovic was freed.

Carter said he weighed the danger of setting a precedent but didn't elaborate.

Even before Keglovic became visible, his family members hugged and cheered each other and were led in to see him.

Moore "surrendered right after the news conference," Merchant said. He said the delay in his appearance outside City Hall was because police needed "a few minutes to get him unwound."

He said Moore was to talk with the White House, but there was no immediate word as to when.

Coffee Break . . .

A LIGHT agenda awaits Washington C.H. City Council tonight at its regularly scheduled meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Carnegie Public Library.

No new legislation or previously introduced legislation appears on the Council agenda. . . Any discussion at the scheduled meeting will presumably come from the city manager's report.

WCH native in guest role on new CBS television series

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

A Washington C.H. native will be appearing in a Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) network television series which debuts Friday night.

Eve Christopher, better known in this area as Barbara Lynne Rose, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James E. Rose, 287 Webb Road, Wilmington, and formerly of Washington C.H., will be appearing in the new "Code R" series on Channel 10 at 8 p.m. Friday.

Miss Christopher will appear as a guest star as "Josie" in the "Code R" series which is "chock full of good intentions and attempts to put the family back into Family Viewing Time," according to a review in this week's TV Guide.

"She received a phone call from Warner Brothers and was thrilled to win the audition," said Miss Christopher's mother, Mrs. Mary Jo Rose. "She enjoyed the week's work and everyone was friendly and considerate."

The series follows the adventures of a resort island police chief, the island's one-man fire department and its sea-rescue lifeguard as they cope with the worst that man, nature and their scriptwriters can throw at them.

The outdoor filming had its drawbacks for Miss Christopher. "She about froze one day filming when she was out on a boat in cold weather wearing a brown bathing suit for eight hours," her mother stated.

The three principal roles in the series are played by James Houghton, Martin Kove and Tom Simcox. In the first show they deal with a team of runaway horses and a scuba diver trapped in an underwater cave. In the same episode they also stage a mid-air rescue of a man with a heart condition and chase a buffalo from a tavern.

Originally, Miss Christopher's interest in acting began while she was appearing in several plays at Washington High School.

Later Miss Christopher went on to obtain a bachelor of arts degree in radio-television-theater from Stephens College in Columbia, Mo.

After graduation she decided to relocate in New York City to attempt an acting career. She discovered that consistent work in acting is a never-ending battle against stiff competition.

Fortunately, at this time, she found that her grades in college math were a useful commodity on the job market. So, to survive, she accepted a position in the accounting department of the Manhattan Paint Co.

But she never lost sight of a career in film acting. While "The Exorcist" was in its pre-production stages, she received a position as an assistant in the movie's accounting department. Her next accounting assignment was in the Al Pacino film, "Serpico." Then came the offer to appear in "The Klansman."

Miss Christopher's film debut found her beaten by her klansman-husband in the movie, "The Klansman." The film featured Richard Burton, Lee Marvin and O.J. Simpson.

Since appearing in "The Klansman," Miss Christopher has served as an assistant production auditor for "All the President's Men," was the head production auditor for a Gladys Knight and the Pips special, and had the female lead in "Picnic" with Monty Markam in summer theatre. Last December she was a guest on the Bob Braun Show in Cincinnati and sang some of her own compositions.

COST TO GO UP — An Oakland Avenue bridge, owned by the city of Washington C.H., is marked for replacement by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners in connection with the proposed Wildman ditch project. The two five-foot pipes under the bridge would be too small to handle the increased water flow after the project is completed. An engineer's report in November estimated the cost of replacement at $23,895. An updated estimate submitted Tuesday by the engineer set the cost of replacing the bridge at $29,300. The city would be assessed the cost of replacing the bridge, if the project is officially approved.

Commissioners approve updated report

By PHIL LEWIS

Record-Herald City Editor

The estimated cost of the Wildman ditch project will be higher than first expected, according to Fayette County Engineer Donald Conley.

Conley submitted an updated report on the proposed project to the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Tuesday at a sparsely-populated public hearing in the Mahan Building.

In turn, the commissioners accepted the report and voted to continue with the project. The decision ended the first hearing on the ditch project that had been continued four times since July.

The project now carries a $111,300 price tag. The estimated cost of the project submitted to the county commissioners last November was $79,000.

Conley told the commissioners that the average cost per acre for residents benefiting from the straightening and clearing of the ditch would be $56. However, he was quick to add that the figure was misleading.

"It will be substantially lower for some property owners and substantially higher for others," Conley said. "If you own a house on property (involved in the project) it will be considerably more than $56 per acre," he explained.

Conley's report updates a report submitted in November by Charles P. Wagner. In January, Conley replaced Wagner in the county engineer's office.

Conley attributed the increase in cost estimates for the project to inflation. He added five per cent increases to all construction costs to cover the inflationary trend. He also added an $11,000 charge for expected damages to people's property. That charge did not appear on Wagner's report.

The highest single cost of the project is the replacement of a bridge on Oakland Avenue. Conley estimated that cost at $29,300 which will be assessed to the city.

The replacement of the bridge, which caused some concern among Washington C.H. City Council members, was included in the project at an earlier hearing. The commissioners

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — A gunman was believed holding several persons hostage on the fifth floor of the B'Nai B'Rith International Headquarters building here, police reported today. A radio reporter at the scene said he had seen one man with a shotgun inside a window of the building before persons inside covered the windows with heavy paper or cardboard.

Police set up barricades at the scene about seven blocks north of the White House.

D.C. police officer A.W. Bell said an unknown number of men armed with rifles attempted a holdup at the building.

Shots were exchanged and at least three persons were injured.

The hold-up men found themselves trapped and took over the 7th floor of the building, where Bell said, they were holding about 20 hostages.

Attorney concerned over court costs

B'burg impeachment suit dismissed

The efforts of 87 Bloomingburg residents to impeach Mayor Max E. Grim have failed.

The case, which got off to a horrendous start last October when it was thrown out of the Fayette County Common Pleas Court and termed "ridiculous" by the presiding judge, has been dismissed by an appeals court.

The Second District Circuit Court of Appeals laid the impeachment suit to rest Friday on a technicality. Someone, somewhere, failed to file needed court documents in the prescribed amount of time.

John C. Young, a Columbus attorney representing the 87 plaintiffs, is not spending his time remorsing over the dismissal. He is more concerned about his clients being charged the court costs.

He plans to file a motion in Fayette County Common Pleas Court to overturn the October decision which assessed $2,500 in court costs to the 87 village residents.

Young said he will contend that the $2,500 bill should be paid by the Fayette County Board of Commissioners as dictated by state law. The Ohio Revised Code reportedly assesses court costs, in cases involving the attempted removal of a public official, to the county.

Young said he would also file for an injunction which would stop the county sheriff from collecting the assessments from his clients until the matter is decided in court.

No matter who picks up the tab for the impeachment suit, Mayor Grim remains in the office he has held for nine years.

The 87 village residents, including five of six village council members, were seeking Grim's removal on charges of neglect of duty and misconduct.

The suit included four separate charges ranging from conflict of interest to failure to carry out the duties of the mayor's office.

However, the 87 plaintiffs had trouble backing up their allegations to the liking of Judge Robert W. Murray, who presided over the case in Fayette County Common Pleas Court. In fact the judge found the charges "ridiculous" and dismissed the case. It was promptly appealed to the circuit court. That three-judge panel dismissed the case Feb. 19, because a transcript of the earlier trial was not submitted in the prescribed 40-day time limit, and no time extension was requested.

The transcript arrived 10 days late, according to Fayette County Clerk of Courts Ann Marvin. Neither Mrs. Marvin nor Young, the plaintiff's lawyer, were at fault in the matter. The 10-day delay was reportedly in the Common Pleas Court's office.

"Everything is timed," Mrs. Marvin said of the appeals court procedure, "and the judges stick to the schedule."

Young filed for reconsideration of the dismissal after the three judges rendered their first decision. Friday, the reconsideration motion was overruled.

The dismissal of any case on procedural grounds alone is the source of some apprehension, the judges wrote. However, they added that an enforcement of court rules must be consistent and upheld the dismissal.

said, adding that he proposed a maintenance strip be reserved on one side of the ditch for the entire length of the project.

He figures to use a total of 4.5 acres of land to construct the strip. Property owners have a right to claim damages for any loss of land and the $11,000 in damage funds was included in the estimate to cover the losses.

"People would have the opportunity and right to file for and claim damages," Conley said. He noted that the reimbursements for damages would be reduced from a land owners assessments.

Clifford Hughes, who was appointed by Fayette County Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman to replace county commissioner Laurence A. (Bucky) Dumford on the board, made a motion to approve Conley's plans and to proceed with the ditch petition. Dumford was unable to vote on the project because he owns property in the ditch watershed.

Conley was allowed three months to submit final plans and profiles on the project. Those profiles are due in the commissioners office June 13. The commissioners would then schedule a final hearing for the project.

That hearing should occur in August. If the project is approved, work would begin in the fall, Conley said.

Assembly prepares major votes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — After several weeks of dabbling in mostly minor legislation, majority Democrats apparently are ready to begin acting on significant measures in the legislature.

The House Rules Committee scheduled floor votes today on bills permitting local option elections on the sale of high powered beer (six per cent) and wine on Sunday.

Representatives also were to vote on a once-vetoed (by GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes) bill protecting homeowners from double liability in home construction and repair contracts.

The latter, a repealer of the mechanics' lien law, for one and two-family residential units, has been in at least the last two state platforms of the Democratic party.

Rhodes sidetracked it last year after being presented with a highly technical measure he said failed to accomplish the intended purpose. Even some Democrats agreed as his veto stood.

The House, moving somewhat faster than the Senate, plans to vote Thursday on another measure vetoed by the governor last session. It requires automatic smoke detector systems in high rise apartment buildings 75 feet in height or taller.

To no avail, some members of the Senate Rules Committee attempted Tuesday to schedule a floor vote on a constitutional amendment repealing Ohio's antiquated $750,000 debt limit.

However, Senate Minority Leader Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, objected, and Assistant Majority Leader M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, was unable to muster the needed votes in the absence of Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron.

Ocasek and House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, both have defended this year's slower than usual pace of the legislature—in session nine weeks now. The essence of their comments have been that there is no need to rush important bills.

In addition, the winter energy crisis and deliberations on a skin tight budget for the next two years have been cited by them as extenuating circumstances.

Committee actions again Tuesday overshadowed floor deliberations, in both chambers.

The Senate approved 31-1 a measure that deletes from the law an exemption from jury duty for members of the Ohio National Guard. It now goes to the House.

By overwhelming margins, the House sent the upper chamber a proposal to facilitate withdrawals of cash from joint bank accounts after the death of one partner. Democrats prevailed along party lines on another seeking to resolve a political feud in Cincinnati over operation of its city-owned railroad. Trustees of the Cincinnati Southern Railway now are all Republicans. The bill would put the power to name trustees in the hands of Democratic Mayor James Luken.

Carter lifts ban on Red journeys

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today termed inappropriate the apology ventured by a U.S. diplomat for alleged American involvement in the overthrow of a left-wing Chilean government, and at the same time announced the end of the ban on American travel to four Communist nations.

In repudiating the statement on Chile by United Nations envoy Brady Tyson, Carter acknowledged that the United States "has been at fault in some instances" for infringing on human rights accords. But he did not put the 1973 overthrow of Chilean President Salvador Allende in that category.

He said, instead, that the American travel ban was such an instance, and that it will be lifted effective March 18. That will permit U.S. citizens to travel to Cuba, Vietnam, North Korea and Cambodia.

Tyson said in Geneva that he exceeded his instructions but did not act contrary to them in apologizing for what he said was American involvement in the ouster of Allende.

"I think the remarks made by the delegate concerning our past involvement in Chilean internal affairs was inappropriate," he told his third White House news conference. Carter said a Senate committee has not found any proof that the United States was involved in Allende's overthrow but only in financial aid to some political groups in Chile.

"The statement made by our delegate was made on his own and does not represent the view of our government," Carter said.

He linked that episode with the broader question of human rights under the Helsinki agreement, saying that the administration remains concerned about that issue. Carter noted that administration officials will go to Belgrade later this year to join in assessment of the human rights accords.

During the presidential campaign, Carter himself had said the United States was involved in the Allende overthrow. On Oct. 6, in campaign debate, he said the Republican administration "overthrew an elected government and helped establish a military dictatorship."

Carter began the news conference with his announcement about travel to the four Communist nations.

He warned that Americans who want to visit those nations should take precautions because the United States has no diplomatic relations there and the establishment of such ties is "a doubtful prospect at this point."

Carter's announcement at a nationally broadcast news conference confirmed reports that had surfaced earlier at the State Department.

Carter also said he is sending Congress a $1.5-billion, youth employment program as part of his economic stimulation plan. He said it will seek the creation of about one million full-time jobs and one million summer jobs to counter extraordinarily high unemployment among young people, particularly minorities in urban areas.

Carter's economic stimulus program had been criticized recently by big city mayors for not doing more to produce summer jobs for young people.

During the news conference, the President also made these points:

—Said his commitment to withdraw ground troops from Korea has not changed. During the campaign, Carter favored a gradual withdrawal of ground troops. Any withdrawal, he said, would be accomplished over a four-to-five year period and would have to be done in cooperation with the governments of South Korea and Japan.

—Speaking about the Middle East, the President said there may have to be some "minor adjustment" to borders established after the 1967 Israeli-Arab war. "We will know by mid-May the positions of the interested parties," Carter said.

He said he could not discuss details of new borders in the Middle East because he has not yet met with Arab leaders. The issue of new borders, he said, "is obviously one of the most serious problems."

—Asked about reports of a grand jury investigation of former CIA Director Richard Helms and whether Carter had asked for CIA documents about the matter, the President said: "I have not been asked for any documents and the Helms case has not come to my attention. Whether to proceed with the case will be the exclusive right of the Justice Department."

A grand jury reportedly is probing whether Helms lied to a congressional committee.

—Expressed complete confidence in Paul Warnke to be the U.S. arms negotiator. He acknowledged that he was concerned over the lack of confidence shown in Warnke during the Senate fight on his nomination. Asked whether the Senate debate would have

Tax rebate measure clears U.S. House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fights over plans for a $50-per-person rebate and a new business tax break are likely to continue during Senate action on the House-approved version of President Carter's program to stimulate the economy.

The tax reduction bill, worth $43.1 billion during the next 31 months, was passed Tuesday by the House, 282 to 131, after battles over features giving 200 million Americans up to $50 each this spring and summer and creating a new job-stimulating tax cut mainly for smaller businesses.

A key vote on the rebates came when the House, by 219 to 194, rejected a Republican-backed attempt to substitute an across-the-board tax cut in place of the rebates.

The Senate Finance Committee continues hearings today on the tax cut measure. Senate Republicans also oppose the rebates and favor a permanent tax cut plan instead.

By 312 to 103, the House accepted its Ways and Means Committee's changes, including a phaseout of the $50 rebates for persons making between $25,000 and $30,000. Families or individuals with income of $30,000 or more would get no rebates.

Carter's recommended $50 special payment to each beneficiary of Social Security, railroad retirement, or Supplemental Security Income for the aged, blind and disabled was expanded to include those getting welfare under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program, coal miners suffering black-lung disease, and persons getting veterans pensions.

While the tax rebates would go out in May and June, most of the special payments would be mailed in late summer.

The bill would permanently reduce taxes for 45.5 million couples or individuals, mostly with incomes under $15,000. This tax cut, to be reflected in paychecks starting in May, would come by raising the standard deduction for taxpayers who do not itemize deductions.

The current system of minimum and maximum standard deductions would be replaced by a flat $2,400 for single persons and $3,000 for couples.

It would produce a $166 annual tax cut for a family of four with an income of $12,500 who do not itemize. Itemizers would get nothing, but tax experts estimate 5.5 million will find it to their advantage to take the standard deduction.

The legislation also would extend through 1978 the current temporary tax reductions for individuals and businesses, including the present $35 tax credit and a bonus of up to $400 for working poor families.

Massive explosion hits Wyandot County

CAREY, Ohio (AP) — A dynamite blast tore through a rock quarry in rural Wyandot County early today, hurling debris a mile away and causing damage to homes in a five-mile radius.

There were no injuries. Sheriff Mark R. Kauble said the blast, which occurred at 3:46 a.m. EST, formed a crater 100 feet long by 80 feet wide and 50 feet deep.

The sheriff said 40,000 to 50,000 pounds of dynamite were involved in the blast at the National Lime and Stone Co., one mile north of Carey, creating a shock wave that was felt as far away as Detroit, more than 100 miles from the scene.

The sheriff estimated damage would run into thousands of dollars.

Asked why the blast caused no injuries, the sheriff said, "That has to be an answer only God can answer. We're surprised nobody was injured."

"We have about 25 men in the area interviewing neighbors and stuff and I'm relatively certain that we would have had a report if there had been any injuries in the area," he said.

Carey is located about 60 miles from Toledo in northwestern Ohio. The town is known as a center for religious cures. The Roman Catholic church possesses a replica of a 17th century Luxemburg miracle statue which is carried in processions in the summer.

It was the second explosion this month involving the quarry, where workers are on strike over a wage reopener clause in the contract. Employees went on strike Feb. 19.

A minor explosion on March 2 in the driveway of the plant manager caused little damage and no injuries. That blast is being investigated by federal agents, company officials said.

"We talked to the blasting superintendent and indicated that there was no way it could have accidentally been ignited," the sheriff said.

One of Carey's 4,000 residents said his family was awakened by the blast, terrified that a major earth tremor might damage their home located about four miles from the quarry.

"It felt a lot like a tremor, everything just shook," said William Smith. "We didn't know what to expect, it blew our back door open and broke a window."

"It scared us pretty good, but then one neighbor told us what happened," said Smith, a laborer.

Stock list goes lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed lower today, extending the decline that set in late in Tuesday's session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell more than 3 points in early trading, and losers took a 3-2 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the rally in stock prices last week and Monday had failed to impress many investors because it came on sluggish volume.

Tuesday's weak showing seemed to convince traders that the upswing had run its course.

Looming in the immediate future was the scheduled report Thursday on the government's wholesale price index for February, which was expected to show the adverse effects of eastern cold and western drought.

Today's early prices included Digital Equipment, down 1/4 at 41 1/2; Xerox, off 1/4 at 50 1/4, and Texaco, up 1/8 at 27 1/8.

On Tuesday, the Dow Jones industrial average fell 3.08 to 952.04.

Advancing and declining issues on the NYSE were virtually even.

Big Board volume totaled 19.52 million shares, up from 17.41 million on Monday.

The NYSE's composite index lost .19 to 54.83.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .16 at 111.42.

The patient can help

Changes in lifestyle are increasingly seen by the medical profession as an important health measure. This is not a new approach to managing or averting heart disease and various other conditions, but it is receiving much greater emphasis now than in the past. This gist of this approach is that medication or other therapeutic procedures may be less important in many cases than having the patient alter his or her way of life.

The point was made again with regard to high blood pressure by experts addressing a recent session of the New York Academy of Sciences. Specialists noted that many doctors have taken to prescribing drugs for treatment of mild blood pressure, or hypertension. Often this is not necessary, they said, and in some cases it may cause unpleasant side effects the patient need not undergo.

What they recommended was that doctors first try other means of lowering blood pressure and thus reducing the patient's risk of developing circulatory or heart problems. One account of the meeting said that these means "include losing excess weight; reducing dietary intake of salt, animal fats, cholesterol and alcoholic beverages (if excessively consumed); stopping smoking, exercising regularly and, possibly, practicing a meditation-like relaxation exercise."

Medically speaking, the matter is by no means of minor importance. More than 25 million Americans have above-normal blood pressure. In most of them the condition is not severe. In many cases, the experts say, recommended changes in living habits may suffice to control hypertension without drugs. The beauty of this is that the patient himself can take positive steps in his own behalf.

A WORD EDGEWISE...By John P. Roche

The NATO shambles

"During the past 18 months NATO has played five war games, and my country has been 'defended' five times and destroyed five times." The source: a knowledgeable German strategist in conversation with Senators Sam Nunn and Dewey Bartlett of the Armed Services Committee. With all hands disputing nuclear supremacy, the B-1, cruise missiles and Soviet air-raid shelters, little notice was paid to the brilliant, mordant analysis of "NATO and the New Soviet Threat" prepared by Nunn and Bartlett.

This is outrageous — that is, unless you happen to be addicted to middle hands in high-low poker. Most of the current disputes are about weapons-systems that are years from deployment. Nunn and Bartlett are talking about a crucial alliance in which existing weapons-systems are undersupplied, mislocated, and in some instances simply rusting in open fields.

Let us briefly walk through the conventional NATO strategy, devised before the Soviets attained at least strategic nuclear parity. And before their immense build-up of conventional forces in Europe and Eastern Russia. An invasion, of which we would have advance notice because it would follow an observable reinforcement of the Warsaw Pact forces, would be met by a "covering force" at the frontier. It would conduct a skilled retreat, trading space for time.

During this time NATO would mobilize its forces in the United States, Britain, Canada and ship them to the combat theatre. An American armored division, for example, would be airlifted to its prepositioned equipment in southern Germany. The lads would gun up the tanks and head for the front line, a long way off to the north. Note that air supremacy is taken for granted: no Soviet MIG-25s would conduct a turkey shoot of C-130s carrying soldiers.

Once reinforcements are in place, NATO forces would either take the offensive or, if threatened with destruction, send for tactical nukes. The threat of nuclear response would surely bring the Soviets to their senses and the invasion would be cancelled. Beautiful!

But suppose, as a number of responsible analysts have, that Warsaw Pact forces are in such a state of readiness they can move from a standing start (that is, without calling up reserves, lugging in trainloads of tanks, and tipping anybody off). What happens to the presupposed scenario? The Soviets and friends would cut through the light covering force and probably reach the Rhine before NATO reinforcements arrived. Any war would be fought in the West German industrial heartland.

And what about the given in the NATO equation — air supremacy? Nunn and Bartlett have a fine section on the transformation of Soviet tactical airpower. They quote a ranking NATO air officer on the crucial point: "The air war in the Central Region (Germany and the Low Countries) has shifted westward, and although the ultimate mission of NATO's air force remains that of providing the Army firepower, we must now first save ourselves before we can save the Army."

In short, we are confronted with the possibility that the Soviets might reach air bases and prepositioned U.S. tanks before we do — though we can draw some comfort from the fact that the tanks have been sitting around rusting, don't have batteries for their radios, lack adequate ammunition, and in general would not be a first-rate prize. Indeed, our munitions depots and tank parks are clearly identified and, given the Soviet superiority in air-to-surface and surface-to-surface missiles, are vulnerable to a preemptive strike.

By every standard NATO is a shambles, but for odd reasons American politicians don't want to face reality. Almost in chorus they will announce their complete support for the defense of Europe — then they refuse to provide the stuff that will do the job. Maybe a half-effective alliance is better than none, but in my book it is a recipe for disaster.

Of course, you can turn "the Russians aren't coming!" into a mantra and repeat it 50 times a day — hopefully you will be right. But the burden is on the optimists to explain WHY this incredible Soviet build-up has occurred. Warsaw Pact forces do not travel in 16,000 main battle tanks because they get more miles per gallon than Volkswagens. Senators Nunn and Bartlett have provided the basis for a serious evaluation of our current military posture in a vital area. The topic should be given higher priority than the value of a mobile ICBM possibly to be deployed in 1985.

Magicians' machinery developed by man

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — George Kirkendall is a magician with machinery.

Everything he makes works like magic.

Kirkendall, 44, of suburban Upper Arlington, manufactures small metal precision devices used by magicians.

He's been at it for 12 years and says he grosses about $20,000 annually from sales to clients worldwide. He makes 40 different items that magicians use in performing their tricks. The items sell for $15 to $200.

Kirkendall was formerly a sales engineer for Taylor Instruments Co., of Rochester, N.Y., which makes industrial precision instruments.

He says grinding out precision metal equipment for magicians is a vanishing art.

One of his trick gadgets is a metallic version of the old shell game.

Another is a reel that can be concealed and used to wind string attached to items which magicians make vanish or appear to float through the air.

"Many of the things I make are never seen by the public," Kirkendall said.

His shop is in the basement of his home and he said business has been getting better in the last four years.

He is also secretary of the Magic Hobby Club of Ohio, which he says has 52 members and is the oldest magic club in the United States.

Kirkendall also restores and repairs antique magic devices.

For the past year he has been restoring a mechanical peacock, made sometime before 1800. It was once used by Robert Houdin, world known French magician who died in 1871.

When it works, the peacock walks, stops, spreads its tail feathers, and walks on.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Use strength and straight talk

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old woman who is taking over a prosperous family business started by my grandfather. This is a small town, and my grandfather formed some valuable business relationships with men who are still very important to the success of our business.

The problem is that these "gentlemen" find me quite attractive. So much, in fact, that I have found myself backed up against the wall, hugged, squeezed and generally mauled by these kindly old buzzards, while they keep reminding me that they've been good customers for over four decades.

If these men were my age, I could handle them, but they're all over 65, and trying single-handedly (and sometimes double-handedly) to close the generation gap.

Is there a way to keep this business (and myself) on our feet?

EDGY

DEAR EDGY: If you're a good businesswoman, you'll keep the business on its feet without tolerating passes from lecherous grandfather types. It may take the technique of an O.J. Simpson or a Tony Dorsett on broken-field running, but that, plus a good straight-arm (and, if necessary, some straight talk) is all you need.

DEAR ABBY: When a guy asks me to dance, how can I turn him down without hurting his feelings? I'm 16, if that makes any difference. Thank you.

CHICKEN

DEAR CHICKEN: Say, "Thanks, but I think you'd be more interesting to talk to. Shall we sit it out?" (P.S. Then you'd better have something to talk about, even if it's only a string of questions to keep the conversation moving.)

DEAR ABBY: Right now I am so upset I want to get this off my chest to relieve my own anxiety, and if you print it in your column it will be a big favor to many women.

I am in my eighth month with my first child, and today I had a checkup. Coming home on the bus, I sat next to a motherly-looking woman who struck up a conversation with me. She talked about nothing but the horrors of childbirth!

She had had six and lost two. Her sister had a child who was born deaf and blind, and her daughter's first child was retarded because of the long and complicated labor she had endured. Then her neighbor's baby strangled on the umbilical cord during the birth process. Abby, by the time I got off that bus I was shaking like a leaf!

Please tell well-meaning (?) women that pregnant women do not want to hear such tales, and if they can't say something cheerful about childbirth not to say anything at all.

UPSET

DEAR UPSET: You've said it all. And very well. Let's hope it gives those bearers of bad tidings cause to pause.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

'Young driver problem' eyed in highway safety campaign

COLUMBUS — In kicking off a month-long campaign to dramatize what he called the "young driver problem", State Highway Safety Director Robert Chiaramonte today pointed out that Ohio's 1976 traffic death toll among 15-19 year olds was significantly high than in any other age group.

"When we talk about a 'young driver problem', we are not suggesting that every young person is an irresponsible driver," said Chiaramonte. "In fact, we're certain that the majority of 15-19 year olds who are licensed try to drive in a safe and sensible manner."

But the highway safety chief went on to cite provisional 1976 statistics which show that 388 young Ohioans between the ages of 15 and 19 lost their lives in traffic accidents last year—by far the highest death toll for any single age group and substantially higher than the combined toll for the 30-34, 34-39, 40-44 and 44-49 year old age groups added together.

"When you consider that 15-19 year olds make up less than 10 per cent of the total driving population, but accounted for more than 20 per cent of all last year's traffic deaths, I think it is clear we need to examine the record and find ways to reduce this tragic waste," Chiaramonte said.

He provided the following details on 1976 Ohio traffic fatalities involving persons in the 15-19 year old age group: —Of 388 young people killed, 275 were males while 113 were females.

after dark while 122 fatalities were recorded during daylight hours.

—259 of the 388 fatalities occurred in a rural setting—predominantly on state highways and county roads—while 129 deaths resulted from accidents within the corporation limits of a city or town.

—Fewer than half of last year's traffic deaths among 15-19 year olds were caused by collisions with other motor vehicles. Nearly half of all fatalities in this age group resulted from one-car crashes. In these accidents, the driver lost control, ran off the road and overturned or collided with a fixed object.

Summing up the statistical information, Chiaramonte said the scenario for a "typical" fatal accident involving 15-19 year olds would find a teenaged male losing control of his car or colliding with another vehicle while driving on a rural road after dark, with one or more passengers in the car.

Based on last year's experience, he added, passengers would be nearly as likely to sustain fatal injuries as the driver himself.

"I think it is vital that we raise public consciousness about the seriousness of Ohio's traffic death toll among young people," said Chiaramonte.

"Over the next four weeks, the Ohio Department of Highway Safety will be issuing further news releases on the underlying reasons for the high death toll among our teenagers, and suggesting some steps to take to save lives in 1977," he concluded.

Book nook

By KATHY HALVERSON
Children's Librarian

Carnegie Public Library has been beset by children wanting the books of the Hardy Boys and Nancy Drew series. This, as every parent knows, is due to the television serialization of these popular sleuths adventures. Because of the tremendous demand, a child may come to the library and discover that all of the library's numerous copies of these two series are checked out. That is, however, no reason to leave empty-handed or disappointed; for your library has many other mystery series with exciting adventures every bit as chilling and thrilling as those of Nancy and the Hardys.

For the young series mystery fan there is:

Legislative goals subject for district VFW meeting

CIRCLEVILLE — The 1977 legislative goals of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be discussed March 13 at a meeting of the VFW's District 11 at Post 3331, 217 N. Court St., Circleville. Eugene Hill is the post commander.

The Circleville post will host representatives from Union, Delaware, Licking, Madison, Franklin, Fairfield, Fayette, Pickaway and Hocking counties, representing nearly 10,000 overseas veterans. Carl Bair, of Baltimore, is the district commander.

Energy policy

leadership urged

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AP) — Gov. Otis R. Bowen is being called on by a group representing 15 southern Indiana cities to put the state on the right track as far as energy policy is concerned.

Dr. Bruce Wallace, executive director of the America Resources Association of Southern Indiana, wrote Bowen suggesting a meeting with its officials.

"Events of the past few months are firm evidence that Hoosier residents, businesses, industry and local government are willing to sacrifice to help Indiana live within our energy supply," he wrote.

He urged the governor to provide leadership in straightening out information and reducing confusion about relationships between local and national energy programs.

Bair says the VFW seeks increased compensation rates for service-connected disabled veterans, additional pension for World War I veterans, the highest quality medical care in all VA facilities, the preservation and extension of the Veterans Preference Act in Civil Service hiring and an all-out effort by government and the private sector to obtain jobs for veterans of the Vietnam era.

Bair said the VFW also seeks a national defense posture second to none, including construction of the B-1 bomber. Additionally, the VFW wants Congress to formulate a plan for universal military training for all U.S. citizens in a specific age group. The plan would be held in readiness should the present all-volunteer forces experiment prove unworkable.

The state organization of the VFW will be represented at the Circleville meeting by Glen Rohr of Canal Fulton, its judge advocate.

FHA club busy at MT

By KIM CONLEY

The Future Homemakers of America is a very active group at Miami Trace. They are an organization that mixes fun with some very worthwhile activities.

One project the FHA is doing this year is helping the Children's Hospital. The hospital has been a state project for FHA for several years. Miami Trace's FHA has been doing their part in this project. Recently, they contributed $500 to the hospital.

This money was raised in many ways. Such money-making efforts included selling cookbooks, a teeter-totter marathon, a walk-a-thon, and selling kit-n-kaboodle.

Another money-making project that the FHA will be doing this spring will be called Eggs for Children. This is where the members go to a house and ask for an egg. They then proceed to a second house and sell the egg, explaining the use for the money received. It is hoped this will be successful so that many children will have a healthy, bright future.

The fun part of FHA comes with sponsoring the annual Sweetheart Dance. The FHA members have put a lot of time and effort into making the dance a success. They have been working for weeks on decorations and making favors for the dance.

18 presents advantages

By MICHELE CREED and KIM CONLEY

The age of 18 is a turning point in the progress of life.

When you reach 18, you review fond memories of a fast disappearing childhood, and look ahead to the goals of the future. People have some conflicting personal opinions on the arrival of adulthood. To some, adulthood means the attainment of much-desired liberties and responsibilities, but to others, it becomes a bombardment of problems and unwanted pleasures.

Those who look upon adulthood optimistically list the advantages as many. They enjoy such things as making own decisions concerning voting, staying out late, purchasing once-restricted items, parental domination, and financial independence. Most important to these people is the prospect of beginning a new life of their own making.

Along with the pessimistic views come the draft, and the problem of knowing whom to vote for. Many liabilities exist including financial, contributing and traffic violations. The penalties for these offenses are harsher than those for juveniles. The most outstanding disadvantage, though, is the burden of generally increasing responsibilities.

Turning 18, whether an advantage or a disadvantage, is definitely a turning point in the cycle of life. The change affects not only those reaching this age, but also the lives of other people, and society as a whole.

Cast of 'Brigadoon' named

Speaking, dancing, and singing tryouts for the musical "Brigadoon" took place Feb. 14-17. The following people were chosen for the eight main characters.

Tommy Albright, the male lead, is played by Don Eyre. Tommy is a young American who is on a hunting trip in Scotland. Tommy meets Fiona MacLaren and finds himself falling in love.

Kathy Edwards plays the part of Fiona MacLaren. Fiona is in her middle 20s and is a resident of Brigadoon. Fiona chooses men very carefully and she affirms this when she sings "Waitin' For My Dearie."

Charlie Dalrymple is played by Jeff Satterfield. Charlie is also a resident of the enchanted town of Brigadoon and he wins the heart of Jean MacLaren.

Julie Fettes is playing the part of Meg Brockie. Meg is a comic young maiden who flirts with every young man she sets eyes on. She is especially fond of Americans!

Derek Gilbert is acting the part of Jeff Douglas. Jeff is the carefree friend of Tommy's.

Fiona's younger sister, Jean is played by Denise Gilbert. Jean is in her early 20s and marries Charlie Dalrymple.

Joel Elzroth has the part of Harry Beaton. Harry is very fond of Jean MacLaren and doesn't want her to marry Charlie. Consequently, Harry hates Brigadoon and everyone in it. He wants to escape from its charmed walls.

Mr. Lundie is the wise old school teacher who lives in Brigadoon. He is the only person who can discuss the miracle of Brigadoon to outsiders. Mr. Lundie is played by Terry Thompson.

Come out to Miami Trace High School, April 15 and 16 to see and hear these aspiring young actors and actresses. I'm sure you will agree that they definitely have talent!

Busing certain in Columbus?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — School officials here will be hard pressed to avoid busing of some pupils away from neighborhood schools if they are to meet desegregation guidelines set by a federal judge.

U.S. District Judge Robert M. Duncan ordered the Columbus and state boards of education Tuesday to submit racial balance plans for the 1977-78 school year to him within 90 days.

The two school boards have until March 18 to appeal to the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, but preparation of a remedy plan must go ahead during the appeals process.

Duncan said the appeals court decision in the Dayton desegregation case which led to limited crosstown busing in that city set a "binding precedent" for his Southern District court.

His 86-page opinion found state and local officials guilty of depriving black Columbus school children of their constitutional rights to equal protection under the law. They were assessed court costs and ordered to remedy the situation brought to the court by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"Each black school child in Columbus must have an opportunity for the integrated education and attendant educational advantages contemplated by Brown 1 and the case which have followed," Duncan wrote.

The landmark 1954 U.S. Supreme Court decision in the Brown versus the Topeka, Kan., Board of Education case wiped out the concept of "separate but equal" schools. Duncan said schools in the state's second largest district were "openly and intentionally segregated" before that decision and since then school officials have "for the most part ignored repeated requests for an integrated educational system."

Racially isolated housing patterns interacted with schools promoting segregation in each, he said.

"I do not suggest that any reasonable action by the school authorities could have fully cured the evils of residential segregation," Duncan said. "I do believe, however, that the Columbus defendants could and should have acted to break the segregative snowball created by their interaction with housing."

He banned any new construction of school facilities in Columbus, unless first approved by him.

Black pupils amount to 32.5 per cent of the nearly 96,000-pupil Columbus school system.

An appeal was expected in the case, although neither school board was ready to announce such a step Tuesday.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Martin W. Essex, who was named individually as a defendant, said he did "not accept the opinion that the state school board was negligent or had any segregational intent."

"At no point," Essex said, "was the Department of Education or the state school board acquainted with any report by anyone that illegal acts were taking place in the Columbus schools and we cannot accept this as a valid conclusion."

Duncan said the state was asked in 1971 by the Columbus Area Civil Rights Council to move on desegregation in the city's schools.

Traffic Court

Four men were found guilty of driving while intoxicated by Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case Tuesday.

Ronnie G. Glassco, 33, New Holland, was fined $250 by Judge Case and had his driver's license suspended for 90 days. He also received a 20-day jail sentence, but 17 days of the sentence were suspended providing he does not patronize any liquor permit premises in Fayette County for one year.

Thomas W. Bowles, 43, of 512 W. Elm St., was fined $250 and sentenced to six days in jail. He also had his license suspended for 60 days. He was also fined $50 for driving left of center.

David J. Reek, 20, Middletown, was fined $200, received a three-day jail sentence, and had his operator's license suspended for 60 days. A charge of speeding was dismissed.

Steve L. Greene, 18, Fairborn, was fined $200 and received a three-day jail sentence. He has no operator's license.

There were also six speeding waivers signed in Municipal Court Tuesday.

Lawrence T. Castoe, 46, Worthington; James R. Taylor, 38, Columbus; Eileen C. Inman, 27, Berea; John E. Seaman, 72, Leesburg; Joseph W. Mager, 50, Lancaster; and Betty M. McNeill, 50, of 206 Grand Ave. all signed $30 waivers.

Municipal Court

Morris (Pete) Clark, 1119½ Willard St., was fined a total of $200 and sentenced to five days in jail after being found guilty of three separate charges in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Tuesday.

Clark received the jail sentence and a $100 fine on a criminal mischief charge. He was fined $50 each for falsification and consuming alcohol in a motor vehicle.

Audrey A. Hoagland, 401 Peddicord Ave., was fined a total of $100 in Municipal Court Tuesday.

She was found guilty of disorderly conduct by intoxication and parking on a road way.

Fumes hurt attendance

CINCINNATI (AP) — Chemical fumes are causing visitors to run away from Mother Nature at a 1,010-acre county park here.

William Canedy, Hamilton County park district director-secretary, has warned that attendance at the Shawnee Lookout Park may have to be restricted because of chemical fumes from a nearby industry.

An archeology hike in the park about three weeks ago had to be curtailed, Canedy reported, because of "strong fumes which made one person ill."

A total of 65 persons on the hike had to leave the park while holding handkerchiefs over their faces.

The fumes generally settle in valleys of the southwestern Hamilton County park and "it's so serious at times you can hardly see to drive in parts of the park," Canedy said.

Canedy told park commissioners it may become necessary to close parts of the park at times of the day when the fumes are at their worst.

The source of the fumes "evidently" is the Kaiser Agricultural Chemicals plant, Canedy said.

Commissioners instructed Canedy to write the board chairman of Kaiser Agricultural corporate headquarters in Oakland, Calif.

Mrs. Carter talks of new life, goals, dreams

First Lady disapproves of unwed couples living together

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Carter is weighing some important policy decision, he doesn't have to ask his wife for her advice.

"I tell him what I think," says First Lady Rosalynn Carter.

In an exclusive interview Tuesday, the First Lady also said she disapproves of couples living together without being married because "I'm kind of old fashioned about things like that."

She said she wouldn't hesitate to send one of her children to a psychiatrist if necessary, and that she hopes her daughter, Amy, will receive sex education both at home and at school.

And she doesn't serve liquor at the White House, she said, because "I just don't want to. Not for religious reasons. I just don't want to .... Besides, I'm saving the taxpayers' money."

In her first interview since becoming First Lady, Mrs. Carter offered a glimpse into her family's new life, her goals and dreams.

Sitting behind a cluttered desk in her small quarters on the opposite side of the White House from her husband's grand Oval Office, Mrs. Carter cupped her chin in her hands and talked for some 40 minutes about both foreign policy and personal concerns.

Mrs. Carter, who has an interest in mental health programs, said no one in her immediate family has had psychiatric care, but if one of her children needed it, "I'd seek it for them. Of course, I would."

As for 9-year-old Amy's sex education: "I hope we can talk to her at home. I hope she'll get it at school. I think it's very important, but I haven't thought about at what age it should begin."

She said that even if criminal penalties for smoking marijuana were removed, she wouldn't want her family or friends to use it "because not enough research has been done to see how harmful it is."

And if someone were to light up in the White House?

"I would disapprove," she said.

The President said last week that the taxpayers are not paying for the Carters to live in the White House and Mrs. Carter expanded on that. "Every bit of food that is served to the family and to our guests is paid for out of our personal funds," Mrs. Carter said.

She added that the Carters pay for their clothes and such items as dry cleaning, but said she has no idea how much the family spends a week for food. She still hasn't received her food bill for February.

"We eat things like ham and turkey casserole," she said. "And today (daughter-in-law) Annette asked if we could have spaghetti one night. We don't eat steak and roast beef every night."

Asked if the Carters are supporting their two married sons and their families, Mrs. Carter said, "Jeff helps pay for everything. Chip works part-time for the Democratic National Committee, and Jimmy pays Chip out of his personal funds because he needs him. Chip's a great help. We give him a check every month. Jeff and Annette have worked and saved money, and they use their own money. We pay for food."

Jeff Carter, 24, is a student at George Washington University. And Chip Carter, who will be 27 next month, makes about $8,000 at the Democratic headquarters. His wife, Caron, had a baby this month.

Mrs. Carter said her goal as First Lady is "for every person who needs mental health care to be able to receive it close to his home, and to remove the stigma from mental health care so people will be free to talk about it and seek help. It's been taboo for so long to admit you had a mental health problem."

As honorary chairwoman of the President's mental health commission, she plans to travel around the country meeting with professionals, parents of mentally afflicted children and possibly patients.

Mrs. Carter will continue to lobby for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, but she is not sure if it will become law. "If it's not ratified, I guess we can get it introduced again and start over. But it's so discouraging," she said.

Asked how she can ask the news media to ignore Amy, then take her places where she will be in the public eye, Mrs. Carter snapped:

"She has always been in the public eye. Amy was three when Jimmy was elected governor. We took her everywhere with us. She often hated to go, but we'd let her take a book. She doesn't pay any attention to the publicity. She doesn't read newspapers; she doesn't watch the news, and she has learned to ignore reporters."

Mrs. Carter said her daughter doesn't receive an allowance and that her responsibilities include picking up her toys and her books.

"We let her go to state dinners because we like her to be with us. We don't make her go. She always says she doesn't want to, then when she sees me putting on a long dress, she decides she wants to put one on, too," Mrs. Carter said.

Amy takes books to the formal occasions, because "she's fidgety and can't sit still." Besides, Mrs. Carter asked with a smile, "If you were going to that kind of party, wouldn't you like to take a book?"

Asked what her greatest dream would be, Mrs. Carter paused for a long moment before saying simply, "We all dream for a full and productive life for our children."

And I said,
"Show me some sofas."

Former Chamber executive accepts post in Virginia

James W. Dunn, former executive vice president of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, has accepted a position with the Suffolk, Va. Chamber of Commerce.

The 29-year-old Dunn has served as executive vice president of the Sandusky, Ohio, Chamber of Commerce for the past two years.

He accepted the position in Sandusky after serving as executive vice president of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce from 1972 to October 1974.

Dunn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Dunn, U.S. 35-SE, is a 1965 graduate of Miami Trace High School. Dunn came to the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce from Devil's Lake, N.D., where he served in a similar capacity for nearly two years.

He and his wife, Sally, have two children, Scott, and Julie.

Court may be closed

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dennis J. Kucinich, court clerk here, said Tuesday he may have to shut down the courts after being informed all but $500,000 has been sliced from his $2 million budget.

"With no budget, I am forced to make preparations to shut down the courts," Kucinich said.

Kucinich said he will have to lay off all 111 employees in his office, stop collecting fines and cease every other function of his office if the funds are not reinstated.

Judge Edward F. Katalinas, Cleveland Municipal Court administrative judge, said, "The courts are not going to close. The clerk may close his office, but I will not allow the courts to be shut down."

At issue is about $1.5 million in undistributed court costs which Kucinich has invested in certificates of deposit. Kucinich has been paying the city interest on the money.

The Cleveland City Council and city administration have demanded the money be deposited in the city treasury and have cited a state law requiring the clerk to deposit unclaimed funds by April 1 each year.

Kucinich said state law requires him to hold the money until his office attempts to determine who it belongs to.

The council then announced it has cut his budget by the $1.5 million.

A meeting was scheduled today between Kucinich and council representatives to seek a compromise.

Farm land mostly dry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warm weather and some rain in parts of the country last week helped farmers with their spring field work, but most of the nation's midsection and far West still need much more precipitation, according to the Agriculture Department.

"Soil moisture was short in the North Central states, and in the West," the department said Tuesday. Elsewhere soil moisture ranged from adequate to surplus.

Some precipitation as rain or snow "temporarily improved" the moisture situation in some of the North Central area, officials said.

"Southern pastures greened and provided a limited amount of forage to cattle herds," the report said. "In northern areas pastures greened but did not grow enough to be grazed."

YCC summer work program applications due on March 15

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR) reminds Ohio youths ages 15-18 interested in conservation work to apply for a spot in the Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) program by Tuesday, March 15.

Sponsored by ODNR, in cooperation with the U.S. Departments of agriculture and interior, YCC will provide four weeks employment for 1,000 Ohio youngsters this summer.

"We are having an excellent response to this popular program and we are urging interested youths to file their applications as soon as possible," said natural resources department director Robert W. Teater.

Applications for the 1977 work-learning program are available from all Ohio junior and senior high schools, vocational schools and offices of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services.

The youths will perform conservation work on state and federally-owned facilities, attending one of two four-week camp sessions in June, July and August. Both residential and non-residential camps will be provided in Ohio.

YCC projects include trail construction, land reclamation, timber stand improvement, erosion control and wildlife habitat improvement.

As a part of YCC, conservation education programs will be offered under the guidance of experts in the environmental and resource management fields.

All applications should be completed according to the instructions on the form provided and mailed to: YCC Selection Office, P.O. Box 23400, L'Enfant Plaza, Washington, D.C. 20024.

Participants in the 1977 YCC program will be selected at random without regard to social, economic, racial or ethnic background with the aid of a computer setup in Washington, D.C.

Applicants will be notified in early April whether or not they have been selected.

Students whose schools or employment offices are out of YCC applications and information material, should urge them to obtain additional supplies from the Office of Employee Services, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus 43224 or phone (614) 466-5960.

Canned food gets sterilization test

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A method for sterilizing canned foods has been developed by Ohio State University to reduce energy needed by food processors.

The direct-flame technique reduces energy use by 30 per cent, Dr. Wilbur A. Gould, professor of horticulture, said.

"This and other energy-saving techniques are becoming increasingly important to the food industry as it attempts to hold production costs in line in the face of rising energy costs," Gould said.

Legislature's battle lines drawn in school prayer issue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The always sensitive issue of school prayer is set for another go-round in the legislature and the lines have already been drawn.

"We have often heard how one or two people, or at least a small minority has been able to remove practically all references to anything of a spiritual nature from our public activities," said

Rep. Dale Locker, D-80 Anna. "It seems to me that it is about time we make our collective voice heard."

On the other side of the issue is the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, guardian of the separation of church and state principle. "We will oppose the present language," ACLU Ohio Director Benson Wolman said of the Locker bill.

Locker, a teacher, has essentially revived a bill that was introduced late in the previous session. It received several hearings but was never voted out of committee.

The new bill, set for a hearing Tuesday in the House Education Committee, directs that boards of education "shall require each teacher" to provide one minute of silence in class each day for "meditation and prayer."

Simple enough. It is based on a Massachusetts law in an obvious effort to skirt the U.S. Supreme Court decision against school prayer by making prayer optional for the pupil.

"As sponsor of the bill, I want to make it clear that is not the intent to force anyone to accept or take part in a specific demonstrational prayer,"

Locker said. "The sole purpose is to allow time, at the beginning of each school day, for the students to pause and think beyond their immediate surroundings."

The problem with that, in Wolman's view, is the mandatory "shall require" clause and writing the word "prayer" into statutory law.

"Teachers will say, 'all right everybody, it's time for prayer,'"

Wolman contends. "It would be an open legitimization for what already goes on."

Wolman said the ACLU could accept a permissive bill that did not make a specific reference to prayer.

"We could live with a period of silence for meditation, but not meditation or prayer," he said.

Things almost got out of hand during proponent hearings on the previous bill in the House Judiciary Committee. One Protestant minister attempted to lead a prayer in the hearing room and others, at times, came close to sermonizing in giving testimony on the bill.

House Education Committee chairman Robert J. Boggs, D-97 Jefferson, said he intended to permit witnesses "free expression" on the measure, within a limited time frame.

Boggs said he asked Locker for assurances that proponents appearing before the panel were "constructive."

The 28-year-old full time legislator, who is personally sympathetic toward the bill, said he planned to call for a committee vote after two or three hearings.

National realtors president eyes property tax hikes

NEW YORK (AP) — Like many millions of Americans, Harry G. Elmstrom of Ballston Spa, N.Y., population about 5,000, thinks residential taxes are too high.

"When I bought my house in 1958 the taxes were about $300; now they're more than $1,200," said Elmstrom, whose small firm operates not far from Albany, N.Y. Everywhere, he said, "there have been fantastic increases in property taxes."

Elmstrom's concern is not only as a homeowner but as the president for this year of the 500,000-member National Association of Realtors, which fears the tax burden all but excludes some families as customers.

"We have to give strong consideration to spreading the burden, away from property," said Elmstrom, maintaining the hardship is sometimes insufferable for young families and retirees.

"The American homeowner is carrying a disproportionate share of local taxation, and we want this harmful situation straightened out," he said.

Taxes are by no means the only concern of Elmstrom; he has a long list that includes prices, rent control ("spreading like a cancer"), mortgage includes prices, rent control ("spreading like a cancer"), mortgage flexibility (he sees no reason why we shouldn't have 50-year mortgages), consumer protection, and equal opportunity.

But, Elmstrom relates, there is also considerable good news in housing.

Starts are expected to rise 1.8 million this year, or about 300,000 more than in 1976. Existing home sales are expected to grow also.

This latter market has been assuming phenomenal proportions, almost doubling since 1968. Last year

2,998,000 existing single-family transactions took place, with total dollar volume reaching a record $126.5 billion.

Since real estate people obtain a commission — often 5 or 6 per cent — on these sales, it would seem the resale market could hardly be better for them. But it probably will be — this year, when sales are expected to reach 3.4 million, for a market value of $155 billion.

State Rep. McEwen says

Relief may be one bill away

COLUMBUS — This has been a brutal winter for many Ohio property owners hit with a one-two punch of higher property taxes and increased maintenance and utility costs due to cold weather. But there may be a bit of good news for them this spring, according to State Rep. Bob McEwen of Hillsboro.

The Senate Ways and Means Committee last week approved legislation (Senate Bill No. 99) extending until May 1 the penalty deadline for persons who don't pay their property taxes on time.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Thomas Van Meter (R-Ashland), told the committee the extension would help homeowners, particularly the elderly, cope with this winter's unusual financial burdens. Property owners are normally charged a 10 per cent penalty for paying their property taxes late.

Van Meter stressed, however, that the bill must be acted on quickly to have any effect this year. It must still be approved by the full Senate and go through committee hearings and a floor vote in the House of Representatives.

The Senate Ways and Means Committee also approved a proposed constitutional amendment establishing a flexible debt limit for the state. Senate Joint Resolution 3 would authorize the legislature to issue notes backed by the state's full faith up to a certain percentage of the state's income in that year, according to McEwen.

Sen Donald E. (Buz) Lukens (R-Middletown) has proposed a "golden age package" of benefits for Ohio's 1,066,000 senior citizens. The legislation includes:

—A bill increasing from $10,000 to $15,000 the amount of income an elderly person may earn and still claim the homestead exemption for tax purposes;

—A resolution memorializing Congress to repeal the $2.30 per hour minimum wage law as it applies to older Americans;

—A bill allowing the Ohio Commission on Aging to promote establishment of non-profit, multi-purpose senior citizens centers;

—A bill requiring appointment of at least one senior citizen to each of 13 state boards and commissions that make decisions affecting seniors; and

—A bill giving lawyers an income tax deduction for free legal services to persons 62 years of age or older who qualify for the homestead exemption.

The House of Representatives last week voted to raise the state guarantee of student loans made by private lenders to 100 per cent from the present 90 per cent.

House Bill 152 also permits the Ohio Student Loan Commission (OSLC) to guarantee loans to non-resident students, and provides that the federal government will, within reasonable limits, assure the state 100 per cent reimbursement on defaulted loans the state must pay.

The bill would make about $20 million more in loans available to students attending state-supported universities. During the last fiscal year, defaulted loans under OSLC program amounted to $1.3 million, or 4.2 per cent of the $30.9 million guaranteed. Defaults are paid off through loan charges to students who borrow money through the program and from reserve funds the OSLC invests.

House Bill 152 also increases from $10,000 to $15,000 the amount graduate students can borrow from OSLC at seven per cent interest. The $7,500 limit on undergraduate loans would remain unchanged.

Area bankers to sponsor TV special

The Fayette Area Bankers Association, will co-sponsor an hour-long CBS TV special dealing with human conception, gestation and birth at 8 p.m. March 16.

"The Miracle Months" features ultra-modern photographic techniques to present biological events seen previously by only a few medical specialists.

Three women, each awaiting the birth of a child, are studied to demonstrate new techniques and technologies that enable physicians to observe, photograph, record and even aid the developing embryo to avoid prenatal hazards.

According to producers, The Tomorrow Entertainment Co., and Medcom, the world's largest company devoted solely to medical information programming, take the viewer on a motion picture journey inside the human body, and magnify it as much as 600,000 times normal size.

Some of the photographic techniques include fetoscopy (photography of the fetus in the womb), thermography (photographic translations of body tissue heat), and ultrasounds.

The "Miracle Months" is one of many television offerings that the Fayette Area Bankers Association will co-sponsor through its membership in the American Bankers Association.

Members of the Fayette Area Bankers Association are the Huntington Bank, the Fayette County Bank, the First National Bank of New Holland and BancOhio-First National Bank of Washington C.H.

AG DAY SLATED

At breakfast this morning, did you think about your food? Did you ponder the process through which it passed, from the farmer and rancher to the supermarket, to your breakfast table?

These questions seem fitting because

Monday, March 21 is Ag Day across the nation, according to Gary Butts of Pitts Truck and Tractor Center, Robinson Road, the local International Harvester dealer.

Ag Day 1977 is aimed at building greater understanding of agriculture in the nation. The sponsor is the National Agri-Marketing Association and the national spokesman is actor John Wayne, a partner in a cotton and ranching operation in Arizona.

BUILDING SALES UP

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio — Sales of metal building systems shipped during 1976 increased 22 per cent, according to P.J. Trepanier, vice chairman of the Metal Building Manufacturers Association (MBMA) and general manager of the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Building Systems, one of 27 MBMA members.

MBMA sales were $705,412 as compared to $578,230,032 in 1975.

Steel tonnage used in metal building systems shipped during 1976 was 903,917, up 20 per cent from the 753,264 tons shipped in 1975.

"Armco building systems offer earlier occupancy, lower heating and cooling costs and easier expansion than conventionally designed and constructed commercial, industrial and institutional buildings," Trepanier said.

COMPLETE TRAINING

Bill Justice, Ron Huddleson and Don Little of Pitts Truck and Tractor Center, Robinson Road, have completed intensive training in troubleshooting and testing agricultural tractors.

The three men have just returned from four days of schooling in Columbus. They are service representatives at the local International Harvester dealership.

FLOOD OF INSURANCE

Ohioans have purchased nearly six times more flood insurance policies through the National Flood Insurance Program during a recent four-week period than were issued in the state in the entire 12 months of 1976.

According to the National Flood Insurers Association (NFIA), which administers U.S. flood insurance programs in partnership with the federal government, the extremely heavy flood insurance activity in Ohio and other states is a result of the abnormal amounts of snowfall and river ice in the state.

During the period of Jan. 24 through Feb. 18, approximately 10,472 new policies were received in Ohio by the Commercial Union Insurance Co. of Cleveland and CNA of Cincinnati (NFIA's servicing companies for the state). This compares with 1,860 policies issued in the state during the 12 months of 1976.

Low cost of flood insurance is available for residential, commercial and institutional structures and their contents in communities that are participating in the National Flood Insurance Program. Some 551 Ohio communities are now in the program.

Sophia Loren grilled by customs agents

ROME (AP) — Customs police held actress Sophia Loren overnight for questioning about her husband's finances, then let her fly to their home in Paris today.

The 42-year-old star was detained for nine hours at Rome's international airport. Police sources said she was interrogated in connection with an investigation into tax and currency activities of her husband, movie producer Carlo Ponti.

Last month police searched Ponti's office in Rome and the couple's villa in the hills south of Rome and seized some papers.

"The whole matter concerns explanations on routine customs mat-

Hope fades for quake victims

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Hope faded for trapped earthquake victims today as rescuers and trained dogs pressed a round-the-clock search through the rubble of collapsed apartment buildings.

"Last night the dogs found a family still alive over there," said a sergeant at the ruins of the Scala cafe and apartment house, "but when we got to them this morning, they were all dead — father, mother and daughter."

The official toll in Romania is still 1,034 dead, 810 of them in Bucharest, and 6,185 injured. But dead bodies are still being found in the rubble and have not been added to the total.

The Scala was one of 32 apartment buildings that collapsed in the Romanian capital during the quake last Friday night. Three men and three dogs from the Swiss Catastrophe Dog Association searched at the ruins.

Aneta Balausan, 20, was found alive late Tuesday after being trapped for nearly 100 hours without food or water. She was taken to a military hospital where doctors said her crushed leg would have to be amputated below the knee. Her family was killed.

Temperatures that had been as high as 50 degrees dropped to near freezing Tuesday night, increasing the risk to trapped survivors of death from exposure. But except for a brief shower Monday, rescue workers have been helped by clear weather.

The workers said it would be days before they had cleared all the debris and recovered all bodies.

Meanwhile, Yugoslav officials said light tremors shook the area around Krusevac, about 95 miles south of Belgrade, Tuesday night and early today, but no damage or injuries were reported.

Foreign aid to the Romanian victims was picking up, with planes arriving or due from 13 nations. East Germany appeared to be taking the lead, sending one or more plane-loads of medical supplies and food daily.

ters," Miss Loren's chief attorney, Emmanuele Golino, said. "The questioning may also be connected with the financial status of Mr. Ponti and recent investigations begun by financial authorities."

Miss Loren was reported in tears during her long stay in the airport customs office. When she emerged just before boarding a 5:05 a.m. flight to Paris, she refused to answer reporters' questions but managed to smile for photographers.

Ponti met Miss Loren at the airport in Paris, but neither would discuss her interrogation.

"I'm tired because I haven't slept," she said. "That's all!"

"I don't want to talk now," said Ponti. "I just want to see my wife."

The Pontis have been French citizens for some years but still carry on hope of their film activities in Rome. They maintain residences in both Paris and Rome.

Miss Loren had just walked through a passport checkpoint at the Rome airport about 7:30 p.m. when an officer stepped up and asked her some questions, witnesses reported.

They said the film star, wearing dark glasses, a dark blue gabardine pantsuit, silk shirt and blue woolen cap, appeared to wave off the questions, and the officer ordered her to follow him. Miss Loren, who was accompanied by a woman friend, carried a large suitcase as she followed the officer to the customs office.

The customs policeman who detained her, Luigi Imbimbo, claimed he had no orders to stop Miss Loren and at first did not realize who she was. He said he made a routine currency check, and "she had on her only a few thousand lire" (a few dollars).

"She was very polite, but I thought it was opportune to take her for a check with my superiors," said Luigi Imbimbo.

Police do well in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Columbus Division of Police received fewer complaints against police officers in 1976 than in the previous year, and officials noted that citizen commendations of officers exceeded the number of complaints by a 2-1 margin.

The police department said it received 438 citizen complaints against 644 police officers in 1976. In 1975, 714 complaints were lodged against 1,019 officers.

The number of unsolicited officer commendations was 1,023 last year, more than twice the number of complaints.

The department said 66 of the complaint cases were substantiated following an investigation, with a total of 84 police personnel subjected to disciplinary action.

One inch is equivalent to 2.54 centimeters.

Low ground water levels worrisome

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Geological Survey officials are expressing increasing worry over the sharp drought-produced decline in ground water levels around the country.

"Ground water normally supplies most of the nation's stream flow during dry periods and is often tapped for emergency water supplies," said Carroll Saboe, chief of survey's current water conditions group.

Saboe said Monday continuing drought has dropped ground water levels to record lows in many parts of the nation and February stream flows were below normal in 80 per cent of the country.

Sixteen recording stations in California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Michigan, Wisconsin, New Hampshire, Oregon, Utah and Washington reported the lowest February flows on record.

"The continued decline of ground water levels in many parts of the country is of growing concern," Saboe said of the water beneath the soil which supplies springs and wells.

"Reflecting the widespread and continuing drought, the combined flow of the nation's big five rivers — Mississippi, St. Lawrence, Columbia, Ohio and Missouri — averaged 40 per cent below normal in February, the third straight month of below-normal flow," Saboe added.

In the Pacific Northwest, survey officials said, some streams carried less water last month than in any February in 70 years despite month-end storms.

Survey officials said the combined flow of the "Big Five" rivers increased 4 per cent over January levels, but even this was 40 per cent below normal for February.

February flows for the five were: —The Mississippi at Vicksburg, Miss., averaged 166 billion gallons per day, 60 per cent below normal.

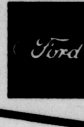

—The St. Lawrence at Massena, N.Y., averaged 139 billion gallons per day, 5 per cent below normal.

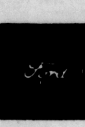

—The Columbia at The Dalles, Ore., averaged 81 billion gallons per day, 2 per cent below normal.

—The Ohio at Louisville, Ky., averaged 68 billion gallons per day, 43 per cent below normal.

—The Missouri at Hermann, Mo., averaged 23 billion gallons per day, 20 per cent below normal.

In contrast, warm weather in Alaska boosted streamflows to their highest monthly levels on record at two stations.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

We would like to express our appreciation to the people of your city who were so kind and helpful to us during our tragic experience there a few days ago.

Especially those kind folk at the City Motel, the young men who answered our emergency call, the personnel at your hospital, the coroner, mortician and even strangers who were sympathetic.

All who live in your city are fortunate, indeed, to live in such a friendly town.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

My son's heart is broken over the loss

of his best friend, Charles (Chuck) Wheeler.

Chuck was liked by everyone that knew him. Chuck loved baseball and was an outstanding pitcher. I just can't tell you what it's like to lose a friend like Chuck. Our hearts go out to his family and may God be with them in their time of sorrow.

Chuck was a happy teenager, always smiling, and he had a teasing way. There is so much to say about him but it's hard to find the words my heart wants to say.

God wanted a flower for his garden so he took Chuckie home to stay and we always will remember all the happy times we had with Chuckie from day to day.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I have seen and read of many articles in newspapers and I too wish to thank the Fayette County Life Squad and am grateful to the Fayette County Memorial Hospital for the medical attention that I received on February 25, at 5 p.m. But most of all, I want to thank police Specialist William Cales, who was called to the scene of the accident. To him, I was a total stranger. He didn't ask what is your social position in this community, he did not ask whom do know that I may inform him of your dilemma. He came upon the scene not knowing who I was, but for a few minutes, he held in his mind and heart the most precious thing I own, my rights as a free citizen of the United States of America.

I was in a state of semi-consciousness and I was at the mercy of anyone who dared trespass against me, but here was the one person who my very life depended on.

I wish to thank Specialist Cales for protecting my rights and for the kindness and courtesy he showed my family during this moment of crisis in my life.

Carter officials eye African policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carter administration officials are split over the future direction of U.S. policy toward Africa in what some diplomats see as a test of President Carter's commitment to human rights.

British Prime Minister James Callaghan, arriving here today, is expected to bring up in talks with Carter both Rhodesia, the breakaway British colony, and South Africa. Both are ruled by white minority governments.

Senior diplomats here say Carter seems torn by broadly conflicting arguments on future U.S. policy toward white-ruled African countries.

One argument, pushed by the President's personal appointees, is for the administration to announce all-out opposition to South Africa as the bastion of white supremacy on the continent.

The other argument, pressed by more cautious career State Department officials, favors a phased step-by-step approach to social change in white-ruled African nations.

"There's a battle going on for the soul of Jimmy Carter with his avowed commitments to human rights, morality in foreign affairs and the dignity of peoples," said one well-placed diplomat.

The go-slow advocates have British backing, which emerged last month when officials of the two nations conferred here on Rhodesia and on the over-all South African situation.

Sources say the Carter administration officials urging strong action against white minority regimes in Africa have been arguing that African and Asian nations expect no less than Carter's uncompromising opposition to South Africa's discriminatory practices.

South African blacks have no political franchise, their movements are subject to control and many live below the subsistence level.

These administration officials argue that Carter will look hypocritical to the nonwhite peoples of the world if, with his stated commitment to human rights, he demonstrates no displeasure with the South African apartheid policy.

But sources say the other side has countered by warning Carter that the United States would be sucked into a bottomless pit of trouble if it tries to interfere. They say a withdrawal of U.S. investments from South Africa would create domestic and international difficulties without necessarily helping African blacks.

They advise Carter that it would be questionable if even friendly nations would back up the U.S. position and they warn that a Cuba-like boycott could turn into a political boomerang because other nations would take advantage of U.S. economic withdrawal.

Minor mishaps checked

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the Washington C.H. Police Department each investigated minor traffic accidents Tuesday on area parking lots.

Sheriff's deputies reported that a semi tractor-trailer rig rolled into another rig on the Garner's Truck Stop parking lot off U.S. 35-NW at 9:10 p.m.

The brakes on the rig, which was unoccupied apparently failed. Kenneth L. Anderson, 60, Sioux Falls, Neb., was the driver of the rig, which struck the parked rig driven by Jan S. Fox, 23, Natick, Mass.

Police officers reported that a car driven by David C. Morrow, 36, of 415 E. Court St., was backing from a parking space on the Ev's Fine Food lot, Columbus Avenue, when it struck a car driven by Mary M. Day, 63, of 1966 Jasper-Coil Road. The mishap occurred at 5:49 p.m.

Columbus populates All-Central District

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Herb Williams, Columbus Marion-Franklin's 6-foot-11 senior, and Jene Davis of second-ranked Columbus Linden-McKinley are The Associated Press choices for the top awards in Ohio Central District high school basketball. A district board of sports writers and broadcasters tapped Williams, an agile center who averaged 25 points, for the Class AAA Player of the Year. They voted Davis the Class AAA area

Coach of the Year after he led the Panthers to 18 consecutive victories and the Columbus City League championship. Marquis Miller, a 6-6 senior forward who averaged 19 points and led Columbus St. Charles to the Central Catholic League title, earned area Class AA Player of the Year laurels. John Smith, leading Columbus Mifflin to a 15-3 record and City League contention, collected the Class AA Coach of the Year honors.

Morrall Ridgedale, the state poll champion, swept the district Class A titles, Dan Wendell being named the No. 1 coach after a 16-1 regular season and 6-1 junior Brad Weston the top player with a 21.4 point average.

Williams and Todd Penn of Linden, a 5-9 guard who was first all-state last season, lead a five-man Class AAA district all-star unit. Penn averaged 20.5 points. His pinpoint passing was just as instrumental for the Panthers.

Joining them on the first team were 6-4 senior Chris Ash of Newark, 17.2 points per game; 6-5 senior Dave Stough of Grove City, 23.0, and 6-3 senior Sterling Williams of Linden, 15.

On the second team were 6-2 Columbus Whetstone senior Joe Miller, 26 points a contest; 6-5 Columbus Franklin Heights junior Mike Saxton, 18.2; 5-8 Newark senior Chris Franga, 17.6; 6-1 Marion-Franklin senior Delbert Miller, 20.5, and 6-2 senior Paul Chadwell of Galloway Westland, 20.6.

Miller is part of a AA district first team that includes 6-4 Bexley senior Larry Wilson, 18.8; 6-2 Mount Gilead senior Kent Baker, 26.2; 6-2 Mifflin senior Dewey Milton, 16.0, and 5-10 Johnstown senior Jeff Kessler, 21.6.

Second team AA selections were 6-1 Johnstown senior Rich Reed, 24.2; 6-3 Hebron Lakewood junior Jay Davison, 20.6; 6-4 Logan Elm senior Chuck Cave, 21.0; 6-6 Pickerington senior Rob Roesch, 19.0; 6-3 Hamilton Township senior Tom Motika, 20.0, and 6-3 Circleville senior Brent Wright, 14.2.

On the district A No. 1 unit with Weston were 6-4 Danville senior Mike Workman, 18.0; 5-11 Johnstown Northridge senior Dave Wells, 20.5; 6-4 Cardington senior Mike Rengert, 20.1, and 6-2 Sparta Highland senior Jeff Jahn, 24.0.

Cleveland signs Carty and Fosse

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Veteran infielder-designated hitter Bill Melton remained the only member of the Cleveland Indians not under contract for the 1977 season, after General Manager Phil Seghi signed veterans Rico

Carty and Ray Fosse Tuesday. Carty, whose contract had been renewed Monday with an automatic 20 per cent pay cut, agreed to a two-year pact with the Indians believed to be worth about $220,000.

East District stars announced

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dave Hanlon of East Liverpool, Dave Olinger of West Lafayette Ridgewood and Ed Andes of Shadyside are The Associated Press' Ohio Eastern District Players of the Year in high school basketball.

Hanlon, a 5-foot-9 senior, averaged 15.2 points for the Potters to earn the area Class AAA accolades of a district board of sports writers and broadcasters.

Olinger, a 6-4 senior, hit 27.1 points a game for Ridgewood for the Class AA honors while Andes, a 6-3 senior and 24.6 point scorer, captured the Class A laurels.

The board did not choose a Class AAA Eastern Coach of the Year, saying no one deserved the honor.

However, Henry Laszsz, who led Tiltonsville Buckeye South to an unbeaten regular season and No. 2 state ranking, was selected as the Class AA Coach of the Year.

The Class A coaching title went to Terry Snively of Shadyside, who produced a 16-2 record in his first season. Both losses were to Buckeye South. Sixteen of his 18 games were against larger schools.

Rose, Reds deadlocked

TAMPA, Fla (AP) — Tough-minded Pete Rose, a sure bet for baseball's Hall of Fame, is digging in for the most difficult stand-off in a career that spans 17 years and 2,184 games.

His pride wounded by a bitter salary dispute, the Cincinnati star is prepared to sever his long-standing love affair with his hometown team.

Rose, baseball's eternal child at 36, may end up as the most celebrated entry in 1977's free agent market next October.

He has convinced his closest friends he is ready to make the jump.

The three-time National League batting champion has taken the firmest stance of five unsigned members of the world champions.

Simply put, Rose feels he is worth more money than the Reds are offering.

"Everything I've ever done in Cincinnati uniform has been to help Cincinnati win," said Rose, one of the game's most popular players and the only man ever named to four positions in All-Star competition.

The Reds announced Tuesday that the contract dispute remains deadlocked.

General Manager Dick Wagner said the Reds plan to automatically renew the contracts of any players not signed by Thursday. That means the unsigned members of the team could have their salaries cut 20 per cent and become free agents at the end of the season, if terms are not reached.

Wagner said Rose has been offered contracts up to three years in length. The Reds are reportedly offering $250,000 a year, but Rose is said to be seeking a package close to the $1.2 million three-year pact paid to teammate Joe Morgan.

Rose doesn't buy the argument that singles hitters aren't worth large salaries.

"If you think that you are tops in your profession, and I feel that I am that close, you ought to be paid a top salary," Rose said. "If $80,000 was the top salary when Babe Ruth was playing and I was playing then, then I think I should be paid near that," said the Reds ten-time all-star, who has batted .300 in 11 of his last 12 years.

Jim Kern recalls happiest words

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — All it took for Jim Kern, the Cleveland Indians' tall righthanded relief ace, to make his first full major league season last year a memorable one was "the right word from (Manager) Frank Robinson."

The "right word" came near the end of spring training a year ago when the hard-throwing pitcher still didn't know where he stood.

"We had a good pitching staff already that was going to be hard to crack," Kern mused here the other day.

"I guess I threw real well, but it didn't look like there was going to be any room for Jim Kern. It was close to the final cutdown and I still didn't know what plane to take.

"So I asked Robby where I should send my wife, to Toledo (Cleveland's top minor league team in the Class AAA International League) or where? He said send her to Cleveland. That made my year."

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — There is floor tile on the kitchen floor of a house we moved into recently. Nobody seems to be able to tell us whether it is asphalt tile or vinyl asbestos. We'd like to know, since we have read that water will not harm asphalt but that cleaners with certain solvents will do so. In fact, we have some floor tile cleaner on hand that we would like to use up, but it says on the label not to use it on asphalt tile. What should we do?

A. — You'll have to test the cleaner on one of the tiles that is not conspicuous. Rub it over the tile, using a clean, white cloth. If any of the color comes off on the cloth, it means that the tile probably is asphalt and that you will have to purchase a cleaner or polish which does not contain a solvent.

Q. — I have taken up woodcarving since I have retired, but I am not very good at it. Is there some inexpensive publication that shows all facets of woodcarving and explains everything in simple terms for the beginner yet is informative enough to show what an accomplished carver can do?

A. — There are undoubtedly several such publications, but the one with which I am familiar is the National Carvers Review. For a sample copy, send 50 cents to National Carvers Review, 7821 S. Reilly St., Chicago, Ill. 60652.

Q. — In the near future I expect to do my first wallpapering job. I have read up on it extensively, including how to overlap the edges. Now someone tells me there is a way to overlap the edges so they do not show. Do you know anything about this?

A. — I assume your informant was referring to a little trick the professionals have of papering the wall so that the overlapping edges face away from the entrance. All that does is to prevent the edges from being seen as you enter the room. If you do a careful job, the edges will not be conspicuous in any case. I assume, also, you know that you can do away with the overlapping entirely if you buy pretrimmed paper, which enables you to butt the edges neatly.

Q. — I did some bleaching the other day on a wooden table. I used the kind of bleach you buy in a hardware store that comes in two containers. The result was pretty good, but after I finished, I discovered that I had ruined a fine paint brush I had. Did I make a mistake in using a paint brush and, if so, how should the bleach be applied?

A. — Bleach is applied with a brush in most cases, although wood finishing shops often use dipping methods. You probably used a brush with natural fibers, which are damaged by the chemical ingredients. The next time, use a brush with synthetic fibers. What the bleach did to your brush explains why you should always wear special gloves when using this product.

Three blazes doused

No damage reported in area grass fires

Grass fires plagued Fayette County Tuesday afternoon, but no property damage was reported in three separate blazes.

The Washington C.H. Fire Department was called to 2906 Snow Hill Road on farm land owned by Silver Dollar, Inc., 1017 Clinton Ave., at 1:28 p.m.

Firemen used water and fire brooms to extinguish the blaze. Sparks from a trash barrel reportedly caused the fire. The Washington C.H. Fire Department received assistance from the Concord-Green Township volunteer fire department.

Ten minutes after receiving the first grass fire report, Washington C.H. firemen were called 1922 U.S. 22-SE to control another grass fire. The cause of the blaze, located on the Jim McWilliams farm, was undetermined. At 2:04 p.m., two Fayette County sheriff's deputies spotted a grass fire while on routine patrol near the intersection of Ohio 734 and the Prairie Road.

The Jeffersonville Fire Department was dispatched to the scene and the fire was extinguished, according to deputies.

Deputies assist patrol in apprehending suspect

Two Fayette County sheriff's deputies assisted an Ohio Highway Patrol officer in apprehending a fleeing suspect at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

The sheriff's office received a call from the state highway patrol post in Wilmington asking for assistance. A trooper had reportedly made a routine traffic stop when the subject fled on foot.

Durward K. Jennings, of Zanesville,

Charles Dickens, commenting adversely on his visit to Upper Sandusky in 1842, wrote that he and his wife "spent a troubled night in a large ghostly room with doors that lacked fastening, both opening on the wild country whenever the wind blew."—AP
